3 Ambulance
In Texarkana

No One Injured
In Dynamiting;
No Reason Given

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Explosions at five-second intervals Friday night wrecked three ambulances of the only firm providing such service in Texarkana, but police said no injuries were reported.

Investigators said there was a strong odor of dynamite afterward and they found ashes left by fuses to each vehicle. The blasts ripped the calm of a semiresidential neighborhood about 11:30 p.m.

Richard Birtcher, owner of the city-licensed ambulance service, was sheriff of Miller County, on the Arkansas side of Texarkana, until his defeat in last year's election.

Stem from Arrests

Birtcher said he could think of no reason for the dynamiting unless it was enmity stemming from an arrest during the two terms he was sheriff.

Three attendants employed by Birtcher had gone to bed in back rooms. Four ambulances were parked about 25 feet away from the rooms.

A window screen saved one attendant, Guy Angell, from a shower of glass. He and others said the three employees were fortunate that the main force of the blasts was aimed away from them.

209 Enemy
Are Killed in
S. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes struck supply lines deep in North Vietnam for the fourth straight day Friday, while in the South an Army-Navy task force reported killing 73 guerrillas in renewed fighting in Mekong Delta marshlands.

The U.S. Command reported 209 Communists killed in ground actions scattered across South Vietnam. Besides the delta battle, action was reported in the central highlands and along the coastal foothills of the 1st Corps area just below the demilitarized zone.

The focus of the war remained on the raids over North Vietnam, however, as Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 129 missions in the continuing effort to cripple Communist supply routes as much as possible before the monsoon rains cover the targets late this month.

Near Red China

The most significant targets were in the heavily defended northeastern part of the country, including two bridges 10 and 15 miles from Red China. The area contains major supply areas and the vital northeast rail line carrying Communist bloc supplies to Hanoi.

U.S. headquarters reported the loss of a Navy F8 Crusader jet, with the pilot missing—the 689th announced U.S. combat loss in the North. The plane went down Thursday—one of five acknowledged losses reported in a three-day span when the Hanoi government claimed shooting down 21 U.S. jets.

No raids were announced in the immediate vicinity of Hanoi or Haiphong Friday for the first time in three days.

Air Force Thunderchief pilots reported leaving 15 rail cars twisted and burning on two rail sidings about 26 miles northeast of Hanoi.

9 Americans Killed

In the 8½-hour delta battle, headquarters reported nine U.S. soldiers were killed and 22 infantrymen and one sailor wounded.

The fight was carried by the new Army-Navy riverine forces operating in swamps, twisting streams and bamboo stands.

Michigan Trucker Killed

Steel Strike Violence Rises

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Michigan truck driver was killed today by a rock that smashed through his windshield from an overpass. Five other trucks were hit by rocks or gunfire in Ohio and Pennsylvania as the tempo of violence picked up despite attempts to find a solution to the steel haulers strike.

The Michigan man was killed on U.S. 23 just south of Flint. His big rig veered off the highway, bounced across a ditch and into a field.

The driver, Frederick E. Beck, 40, of Wayne, was hauling animal parts to a soap factory in a flatbed but a state trooper said the load could easily have been mistaken for steel in the darkness.

An investigation was started to see if the fatal accident was connected to the violent strike by maverick Teamsters trying to force their union to get them a better contract. If the connection is confirmed, it would be the first death caused by the seven-week-old strike that has almost completely stopped the highway movement of steel.

'Could Have Been Bad' No one was injured in the four incidents on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, but a trooper said, "Just a few more inches and these could have been real bad."

A man lying in ambush behind a bank near Everett fired on two trucks with a shotgun, shattering the right windshield each time. The drivers managed to keep the trucks on the road.

Two other trucks were hit by rocks pitched from an overpass, also near Everett. Windshields were smashed both times. In Ohio a night rider in a green car passed a tractor-trailer on U.S. 30 near Hanover, shot hit the mirror brace and the driver, Clarence Helm, 42, of Canton, was not hurt.

The Pennsylvania vandals were defying triple-strength police patrols, FBI agents and National Guard units on standby. The state cracked down on the violence after dozens of trucks were damaged nightly earlier this week.

Attempts to move the labor dispute from the highways to the conference table have been started by the trucking industry.

Trucking firms said the truckers ought to be paid for the time they wait and promised to help get that pay. They said they would attend a conference of governors' representatives called by Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer in Pittsburgh Monday.

The truckers will be there also. "We realize that extraordinary measures are called for, and we hope that something fruitful will come of this meeting," strike leader William Kusley said.

Governors of Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, New York and West Virginia said they will be represented at the conference.

Pentagon Denies
Plans for Invasion

Sen. Hartke Says Pressure
Is Being Put on President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator's assertion that U.S. military leaders are pushing hard for a U.S. invasion of North Vietnam has drawn a Pentagon statement that no invasion is being considered.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said in a Friday interview: "There is no question but that there is increasing pressure on the president for an invasion."

Hartke told the Washington Evening Star that such an invasion would include neighboring Laos as well as North Vietnam since the military regards all of Southeast Asia as a "theater of war."

Earlier in the week the Indiana Democrat told the Senate it's well known that plans for such an invasion have been drawn up for a long time.

'No Consideration' Asked for comment on Hartke's charge, Pentagon spokesmen issued this statement: "No consideration is being given by the Department of Defense to an invasion of North Vietnam."

The war continued Friday to generate Senate debate, with Sen. John G. Tower, R-Texas, calling for what he termed a new policy of decisiveness to end the fighting. "Instead of vacillation we must have victory," said Tower, who in the past has supported President Johnson's war policies.

Critics of the U.S. war policy were scolded by Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, in another Senate speech. "How long can a nation endure if its leading citizens unjustly and falsely condemn that nation as being the perpetrator of wrongs?" asked Lausche.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a persistent war critic, said his differences with the President won't stop him from backing Johnson for re-election.

Neighbor Credited With Rescue

Blaze Routs 4 From Appleton Home

Four persons, including three children, escaped unharmed wearing only their nightclothes from a burning tri-level home in Appleton early this morning.

In the house at 903 W. Grant St. at the time the fire broke out in the recreation room were Mrs. Earl Sambs; her daughters, Vicki, 14, and Tammy, 8, and Vicki's friend, Karen Jeske, 16. Stead Drive, Town of Menasha. Sambs was working at Marathon Corp. in Menasha at the time of the fire while another daughter, Shelley, 12, was at the home of a friend.

A neighbor, Miss Helen Coonen, 914 W. Grant St., was credited with helping Vicki and Karen get out of the smoke-filled house.

Terrier Dies

A small West Highland terrier, one of five dogs in the basement, died of smoke inhalation despite firemen's efforts to revive it. Three other dogs including a German shepherd, got out of the building. Firemen carried out three of the dogs after discovering them yelping in a basement pen.

Mrs. Sambs told a Post-Crescent reporter that "something" woke her up as she and her eight-year-old daughter slept in one of the three bedrooms on the third level, directly above the burning recreation room.

Firemen said that had she not awakened when she did, it may have been too late to get out of the house. Mrs. Sambs grabbed Tammy and tried to get into the recreation room, where she thought Vicki and the other girl might be sleeping. Mrs. Sambs said flames, heat and smoke were intense in the area of the recreation room.

The woman ran across the street to the Coonen house, and firemen were summoned. Miss Coonen said she ran to the burning home, which already was enveloped in smoke. She stood at the front door and shouted for Vicki and Karen. She then went a short way into the house and helped the two girls escape.

Vicki told a reporter that she and her friend were asleep until they heard Miss Coonen's shouts. "When I awoke, I couldn't breathe or see. It was so stuffy in there," Vicki said. They also were in an upstairs bedroom.

Miss Coonen said her father, George, wanted to get into the basement to get the dogs, but was forced back by smoke and flames.

Firemen, who responded to the alarm with four trucks, said they could see smoke pouring from the house before they arrived. The entire recreation room was in flames. They brought the fire under control in about 15 minutes, but remained at the home for 3 hours.

Fire department officials said the blaze, of undetermined cause, started in the recreation room, and crept through walls into the second floor bedrooms and into the attic. There was extensive smoke and heat damage throughout most of the modest house.

Sambs could not immediately give an estimate of damage which reportedly was at least partially covered by insurance. The family is staying with relatives today. Fire officials are continuing investigation into the blaze.

Head-on Collision Kills
Rural Tigerton Man, 72

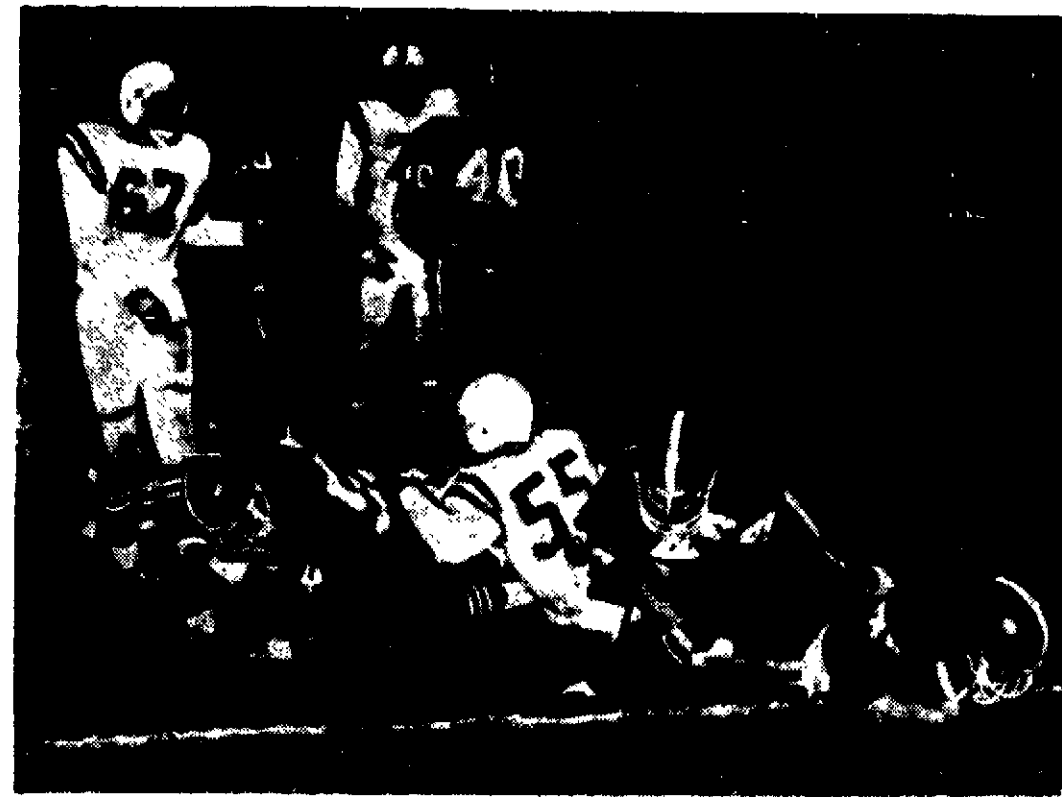

A rural Tigerton man was killed in a two-car, head-on crash on Shawano County Trunk M not far from his home shortly before 9 p.m. Friday.

The victim was William Fritz, 72, whose passenger, Glenn Schroeder, also of rural Tigerton, was hospitalized.

The Shawano County Sheriff Department said Fritz was making a left turn onto a town road when his car collided with one driven by Joseph M. Ezelle, 17, Caroline, traveling east on M. The accident scene was about two miles east of Tigerton.

Two other persons have died of accident injuries, raising the state's fatality count for the year to 812, compared with 830 on this date a year ago.

Warren P. Hanke, 24, Des Plaines, Ill., was killed Friday night when the car he was driving left a town road in Dane County and crashed into a tree. Mrs. Theresa Robbins, 66, North Fond du Lac, died Friday at a Waupun hospital of injuries sustained Sept. 24 in a collision on U. S. 151 3½ miles south of Waupun.

One or Other Will Start Sunday

Gibson, Carlton Both Ready

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The starting pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals in Sunday's fourth game of the World Series will be either Bob Gibson or Steve Carlton, Manager Red Schoendienst says.

Schoendienst said young Carlton, the only lefty among the Cardinal Series starters, will pitch one of the games for sure. The fact that the Boston Red Sox are predominantly right-handed didn't bother Schoendienst.

"He pitched against righties and lefties all year," Schoendienst pointed out. "And he was a winner." Carlton was 14-9 during the season. "He's just liable to throw a shutout against them. If he has his control and stuff he's going to be hard to beat."

Schoendienst said he would rather pitch Carlton in St. Louis, where he wouldn't have to worry about Fenway Park's treacherous, short left field. Carlton, for his part, took the news of his starting assignment coolly. "Why should I get nervous?" the 22-year-old lefty asked. The prospect of facing a line-up loaded with righthanded hitters didn't worry him. Carlton said most teams had platooned righthanded hitters against him.

Schoendienst said his biggest concern was Carlton's control. "If he's got control he'll be all right. They'll get some hits off him. They always do, but he'll be tough."

More Effective
Asked if he thought that Carlton's curve ball would make him more effective against Boston sluggers like left-hander Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott, Schoendienst said that the curve was Carlton's best pitch.

"He's got a good curve ball and a good fastball. I don't go for this stuff about a pitcher's best pitch. A pitcher's best pitch is control."

Schoendienst indicated that Carlton might start the Sunday game if the Cardinals captured the third game of the Series. But, if the Cardinals lost, Gibson would probably start Sunday and Carlton Monday.

That would leave Gibson available to pitch in the seventh game of the Series—if there is one.

Fined, Suspended, Lowe Reinstated
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The on-again, off-again feud between San Diego Charger half-back Paul Lowe and his coach Sid Gillman is off again.

Lowe, who was fined $1,000 and suspended from the team indefinitely early Friday, said 14 hours later he was ready to apologize to Gillman and rejoin the team at its La Mesa, Calif., training camp Monday.

Gillman, coach and general manager of the Chargers, apparently levied the penalties when Lowe was 30 minutes late for practice.

Gillman said he welcomed Lowe back. After meeting with Lowe, Gillman agreed to lift the suspension, saying: "Our rules are simple. All I want is for the players to be here on time and be working. I don't want their money; I want them."

But, he added, the fine would stick.

Tim Van Galder Waived From Cardinals' Squad
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals have reactivated veteran defensive end Joe Robb. Rookie Quarterback Tim Van Galder was waived Friday to make room for Robb, who was injured in an exhibition game earlier this year.

The Cardinals said Robb is fully recovered from knee surgery and is expected to start at his left defensive end position Sunday at Minnesota.

Top-Ranked Schofield Wins Easily
Unbeaten West Tied by Southwest, 7-7

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Schofield and Stratford, the state's top big and little schools, respectively, in the weekly Associated Press poll, both extended their season records to 6-0 Friday night by posting shutout victories to highlight Wisconsin high school football action.

Schofield whipped Stevens Point 50-0 and now has compiled 281 points for the season, while allowing opponents only six. The triumph over the Pointers enabled Schofield to retain full possession of the Wisconsin Valley Conference lead. The balanced Schofield attack ground out 172 yards on the ground and 187 through the air. Stevens Point had a total of 49 yards.

Quarterback Dan Pregont passed to Gene Geurink for touchdowns of 20 and 18 yards. Pregont also threw for one extra point and kicked five others.

Stratford rolled over Pittsville 34-0 as George Chrouser rushed for 133 yards and scored three touchdowns on runs of four and five yards and with a 42-yard pass interception.

The second-ranked school in the Big Ten, Eau Claire Memorial, had its 4-0 record spoiled as it was held to a 20-20 tie by Menomonie.

Fourth-ranked Green Bay West also had a perfect season record spoiled as it tied with cross-town rival Green Bay Southwest 7-7. West had been 3-0 going into the contest.

Southwest tied up the game in the final three minutes as quarterback Al Sigmund directed a 79-yard drive in 10 plays and climaxed it with a three-yard touchdown run. Larry Pitts kicked the extra point. West had taken the lead at 7-0 in the third quarter when quarterback Jerry Tagge passed to Dave Mason for a 42-yard score and then ran for the extra point.

Madison LaFollette, ranked sixth in the Big Ten, downed Beloit 26-0 to boost its record to 26-0.

Wausau, ranked seventh after having its record dropped to 4-1 by a defeat, came back strong Friday night with a 44-7 triumph over Chippewa Falls.

Russell Sees Possible Race War in U.S.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Unless a change is made in the status of Negroes, the United States is "on a collision course to a race war," player-coach Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics said Friday night.

Russell, a Negro, was in Milwaukee for a National Basketball Association exhibition game between the Celtics and the Chicago Bulls.

"If there's no substantial change in the status of the Negro, there's going to be a race war," said Russell, who is the first Negro ever named to direct a major league team in the United States.

"If we don't do anything about the situation, we're going to be doing the same thing to colored people that the Nazis did in Germany to the Jews."

Russell said he personally was not non-violent.

"If somebody down the street throws a rock at me, then I'm going to break his head open," he said.

The business community could end the current racial strife, he said.

"It will be ended when the business people decide they can make a profit in the process," Russell said.

Lions Banking on Top Effort, Ground Game In Key Clash With Pack

DETROIT (AP)—Anyone who ever saw Joe Schmidt play middle linebacker for the Detroit Lions for 13 seasons knows that he is not a 90 per cent guy. He is full blast.

Schmidt was ambivalent when his Lions tied the world champion Green Bay Packers 17-17 in the season opener at Green Bay; a great moral victory for a team which won only four games last year, but a tie nevertheless.

"We tied the first time," Schmidt said after a final workout Friday. "This time it will be a matter of 100 per cent football 100 per cent of the time."

Schmidt, in the first-year of a five-year contract, has turned a so-so offensive line into one that is blocking for the best rushing offense in the National Football League.

Offense Improved
"Our offense has shown tremendous improvement," said Schmidt. "It should be a great help to our defense."

The Lions, 1-1-1 after three games, must beat the Packers (2-0-1) if they hope to make a race of it in the Central Division.

Most likely, Zeke Bratkowski will start at quarterback for Green Bay because of season-long injuries suffered by regular Packer signal-caller Bart Starr.

But it's doubtful that Green Bay's offense will look much different.

Packer Coach Vince Lombardi indocrimates his quarterbacks to the Green Bay system so a shift in leadership won't change things much.

Kaukauna Powers Past New London For 28-0 Victory

Drier Scores Three Touchdowns
Ghost Defense Allows 39 Yards

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Power football, used to it's fullest by Coach Harry Wilson's Ghosts, wore out a stubborn New London defense over the first three periods of play and enabled Kaukauna to post a 28-0 Mid-Eastern Conference win Friday night.

Sophomore Steve Drier was the standout of the contest, tallying three touchdowns and dominating offensive play for Kaukauna, which recorded its first victory in four league outings.

New London dropped its third decision in four contests.

The Ghosts got on the scoreboard in the second period, as Paul Fassbender blasted over from the nine to cap a 29-yard march. Marly VanZeeland's PAT kick was blocked.

Offense Stymied

A huge Kaukauna defense stymied the New London offense throughout the game, and the Ghosts offense moved well enough in the first three periods to wear down the Bulldog defense which played an outstanding game, despite the score.

Field Day

The hard running Drier punished the Bulldog defensive unit — totting the ball 23 times for 151 net yards on the ground and snaring four passes for an additional 57 yards. Fassbender rushed 19 times for 87 yards.

New London, on the other hand, finished the contest with only 25 yards gained rushing and

Miami Rips Tulane for Initial Win

BY GENE PLOWDEN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami Coach Charlie Tate finally found a quarterback and developed a new offense to give the Hurricanes their first victory of the season a 34-14 triumph over Tulane, in the Orange Bowl Friday night.

It was the biggest score Miami had run up in eight meetings with the Green Wave.

Tate chose quarterback David Olivo, a 6-foot-1, 205-pound junior from Arnold, Pa., after alternating his signal caller in the first two games, won by Northwestern and Penn State.

Olivo came through with a sparkling performance that saw him pass for two touchdowns, run for another from three yards out, and mix his plays effectively on a rainsodden field. He passed for 117 yards, completing nine of 18, and one of his throws netted 30 yards.

"There was no question in my mind about taking out Olivo after the first half," Tate said. "I made up my mind to keep him in all the way. We had to establish a No. 1 quarterback and we did."

Henderson and his wife returned to Las Vegas Wednesday to pick up the check from Sammy Cohen, owner of Santa Anita Race Book.

The Hendersons told Cohen the money will be placed in trust for their infant son, Archibald Jr.

Dolphins Sued by End Earl Faison

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Defensive end Earl Faison sued the Miami Dolphins for $60,000 Friday for alleged breach of contract.

The action, filed in Dade County Circuit Court, said the Dolphins acquired his contract on July 29, 1966, from another American Football League club, the San Diego Chargers, then cut him from the roster.

Blockbusting halfback "Oscar" Schuler, whose power is exceeded only by his determination, Friday night became the man of the hour in the Fox Cities football game of the year as he triggered a 21-14 Little Chute St. John victory over Appleton Xavier.

Schuler blasted across the goal-line for all three St. John touchdowns — including the clincher with only 1 minute, 16 seconds left to play — to lead the inspired Chuters to their first major-sport win in history over Xavier.

A Goodland Field-surrounding crowd of more than 4,000 watched the Chuters take the undisputed Fox Valley Catholic Conference lead and drop the defending champion Hawks into third place.

For Xavier, which had gone into the showdown with an undefeated-unscored-upon FVCC record, it ended a 2-season unbeaten streak at 11 games and represented only its third conference grid loss in 46 games covering seven seasons. The Hawks are now 4-1-1, overall.

Half-Game Lead

St. John (4-0 in the FVCC and 5-1, over-all) has a half-game lead over unbeaten Green Bay Premontre, pending the outcome of today's Cadet contest against Fond du Lac Springs.

Last night's thriller combined the ultimate in fierce defensive play with the excitement of electrifying, big-gain offensive maneuvers. It matched the unrelenting pressure of a mentally and physically-fired-up Chuter team against the unbreakable fortitude of the perennial champions.

The Chuters, coached by Avitus Ripp, swept to a seemingly secure 14-0 lead in the first 30 minutes, as Schuler capped a 53-yard march with a 1-foot stab and climaxed a 60-yard goalward journey with a 5-yard burst.

Backed up to the wall, the Hawks' thoroughbred strain came to the surface without warning. Gene (Torchy) Clark's scrappers got one touchdown back in the third period when Brad Graff raced 85 yards on a kickoff return and achieved the equalizer with an 84-yard, fourth-period drive that was rounded out by Jerry Rankin's 5-yard smash.

With the score 14-14 and only 5:46 left to play, the momentum seemed to have swung to the Hawks. They forced a Chuter punt after three unsuccessful plays and took over the ball on their own 44 with 3:37 remaining.

But, in the game of quickly-changing fortunes, the resourceful Chuters regained command two plays later. A Xavier pitch-out was fumbled, and St. John's Steve Hietpas claimed the ball on the Hawk 34. It was the sixth — and perhaps most costly — of seven Xavier turn-overs.

With the 195-pound Schuler proving an irresistible force, the Chuters covered the remaining 34 yards in five plays. Schuler drove for five, and a Lee Weyenberg pass to Duane Van Boxtel brought a first down on the 21.

Schuler bulled over center to the 11 — within a foot of a first down. The Hawks stiffened momentarily and stacked up Schuler without gain. The next time the bulldozing Schuler got the ball, he wouldn't take no for an answer. Using raw power, he chewed up the final 11 yards, knocking over several defenders and lunging for the goal line that represented victory.

Though only 1:16 remained in MILWAUKEE (AP)—Big Bill Russell hauled in 16 rebounds and veteran sixth-man John Havlicek scored 22 points Friday night as the Boston Celtics posted a 106-98 victory over the Chicago Bulls in a National Basketball Association exhibition.

Small southpaw guard Guy Rodgers pumped in 27 points to lead both teams in scoring.

The Celtics held a 29-24 lead after the first period and never trailed after that, although the game Bulls narrowed the margin on several occasions. With only four minutes to play, Chicago cut the Celtics' lead to 95-91, but Boston then put it out of reach.

Russell, the player-coach of the Celtics, started the game, but sat out most of the second quarter and played only about ten minutes of the second half.

The start of the game was delayed several minutes as Milwaukee fans put on a final rush at the ticket windows. Officials said about 2,000 tickets were sold in the late surge—bringing the total attendance to 6,029. That was a record game for the Bulls in exhibition play.

Steelers Clash With Browns Before 80,000

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Raiders put their American Football League winning streak on the line against Joe Namath and the New York Jets tonight while Cleveland and Pittsburgh tangle in a key National Football League intradi-vision test.

Oakland, 3-0 after a 23-21 triumph over Kansas City's de-fending AFL champs last week-end, pits the league's top de-fense against a powerful, Na-math-led attack that has carried the Jets to two victories in three starts.

A crowd of 60,000-plus is ex-pected at New York's Shea Stadium, with the Jets rated a two-point favorite to end Oak-land's unbeaten run.

Expect 80,000

The Steelers and Browns figure to draw 80,000 for their annual Saturday night meet-ing in Cleveland's Municipal Sta-dium. Each team goes into the game with a 1-2 record and the loser will be in deep trouble in the NFL's Century Division.

The Browns, with quarterback Frank Ryan on the mend after spraining both ankles, are fa-vored over a Pittsburgh club which has lost quarterback Bill Nelsen indefinitely with a dam-aged knee.

The Raiders, who lead the AFL in defense against both passing and rushing, tackle an improving New York club that has whipped Denver and Miami decisively after a season-open-ing 20-17 setback at Buffalo.

Namath had his finest two games as a pro in bombing the Broncos for 399 passing yards and following up with a 415-yard binge against the Dolphins. He is the league's top passer, with Daryle Lamonica of the Raiders No. 2.

New York's league-leading offense, which has averaged 416 3/4 yards-per-game, will be going up against an Oakland defense that has allowed only 164 7/8 yards-per-contest.

WITTENBERG — A 1-yard plunge by Jim Stollenberg and a conversion by Jerry Aanonsen in the fourth quarter lifted Witten-berg to a 7-6 win over Weyauwe-ga in a Central Wisconsin Conference game here Friday night.

The Indians scored their six points in the second period on a 7-yard dash by Wally Boelter. The run for the extra point failed.

The victory put the Wildcats on top of the CW race with a 2-0 mark. Weyauweiga is 0-1 in league play.

Wittenberg picked up nine first downs to Wega's three stopping the Indians without a first down in the entire second half.

The two teams were scoreless through the first quarter, but Don Heagle rammed for a 1-yard touchdown plunge to put the Indians ahead, 6-0, at half-time.

Oconto Falls Tops Bonduel, Retains Conference Lead

RONDUCEL — Quarterback Dan Coopman fired two touch-down passes and scored one himself to lead undefeated Ocon-to to a 35-6 romp over Bonduel.

The victory, coupled with Algoma's 14-0 shutout over pre-viously unbeaten De Pere, gives the Panthers sole possession of first place in the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference.

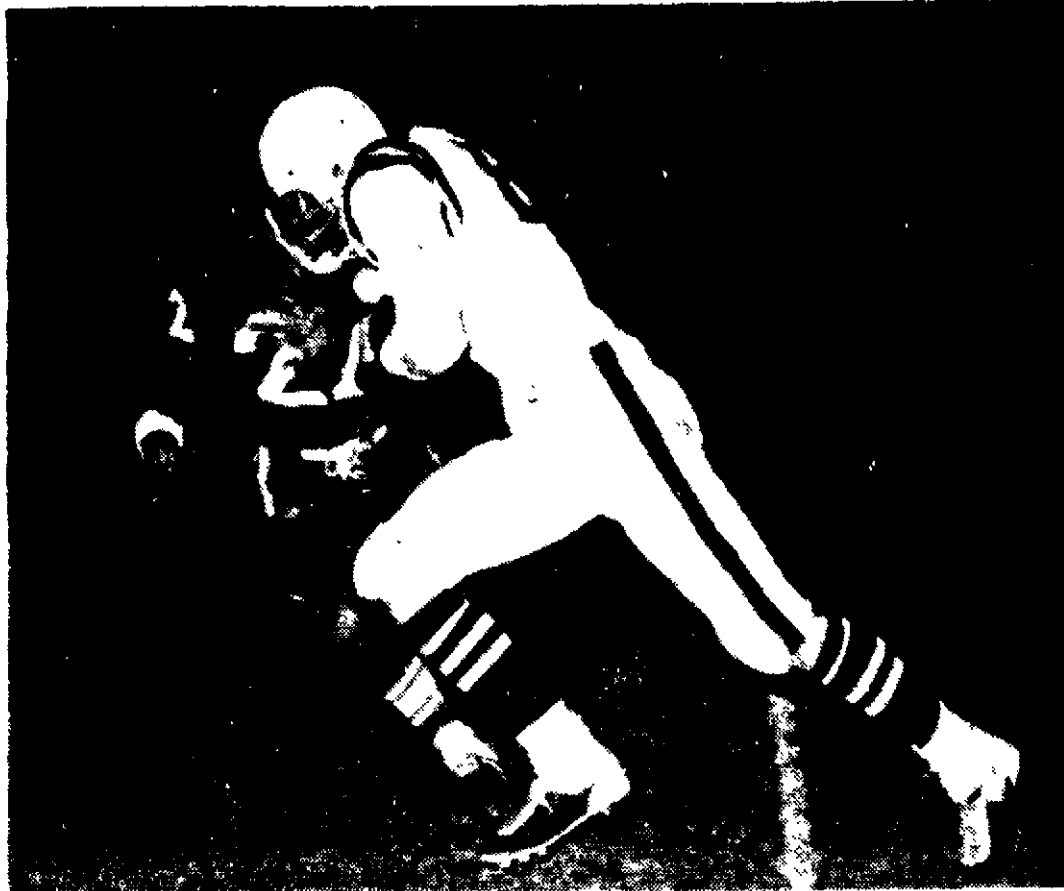

Coopman paced the Falls' attack which took advantage of numerous Ronduel errors to score nearly every time it had the ball. Mike Kardoskie grab-bed one Coopman touchdown pass and scored again on a seven yard dash.

Bonduel scored its only touch-down in the final period on a 36-yard pass from Ken Boettcher to Tom Beltzer.

Internal Revenue Seeks $419,936 Taxes From Rams

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is trying to collect $419,936 from the Los Angeles Rams football team for back income taxes for the years 1965 and 1966, papers on file at the U.S. Tax Court showed Friday.

The cause arose from the sale of the National Football League team in 1963 for $7.1 million to Daniel F. Reeves.

Following the sale, Reeves valued the player contracts for the Rams at $3.5 million and decided to amortize two-thirds of this value over a five year period for tax purposes.

Wrightstown, Hilbert Notch Victories

Brillion Rolls to Sixth Straight Win; Denmark Rally Nips Irish, 33-27

The rich got richer in the Little Nine Conference Friday night, as the top three teams — Brillion, Denmark, and Wrightstown — all emerged with victories.

The unbeaten Lions, who were rated No. 2 in the state's AP small school poll, notched their sixth league win in ripping Reedsville, 27-0. The Vikings and Tigers stayed in second place tie with 5-1 records after Denmark got past Freedom, 33-27, and Wrightstown romped over Omro, 32-0.

In the other Little Nine game, Hilbert tripped Shiocton, 19-8. Hortonville was to be at Winne-conne today.

Quarterback Russ Hanson got Brillion off to a quick start as he drove his team 64 yards in five plays, capping the drive with a 39 yard scoring pass to halfback Ken Schwahn. Hansen added the PAT.

In the second period the Lions climaxed a 65-yard march scored when Hansen passed 23 yards to Larry Habermann. Hansen again kicked the point after and Brillion held a 14-0 lead at halftime.

Third TD Pass

Hansen's third touchdown pass came early in the third quarter when he collaborated with Jim Michaels and Dick Klein on a 44 yard scoring endeavor. Hansen passed 10 yards to Michaels, who lateraled to Klein who raced the final 34 yards to paydirt.

The Lion's final touchdown came on a 2 yard plunge by Tom Garrow after a 27 yard burst by Dennis Miller had put Brillion in scoring position. Hansen's third conversion of the evening made it 27-0.

Three fourth quarter touch-downs boosted Denmark from a 27-14 deficit to a thrilling 33-27 victory over Freedom, keeping the Vikings in a tie for second on the last play of the third period changed the tide of the game.

Quarterback John Roberts played the key role in the comeback drive, tossing three 1-yard line to open the fourth TD passes, one to Tom Umen-ium and two to Marty Umen-ium for the score on the opening play of the final stanza.

Number Six Clothespins
For a New Rainy-Day Game

BY CAPPY DICK
Six spring-type clothespins (Figure 1) are needed for today's rainy day game. Get Mother's permission to use the pins because you will use ink to print numbers on each of them. She may not want to use these clothespins later because of the possibility the ink would fade onto damp laundry.
Mark each clothespin with four numbers -- 10 on one flat surface (see Figure 1), on the other flat surface, 7 on one side and 9 on the other side.
Gathering all six clothespins into one hand, toss them out on the floor or table. Add the numbers that are uppermost. The total will be the player's score for that turn.

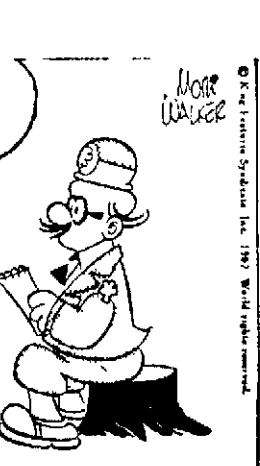

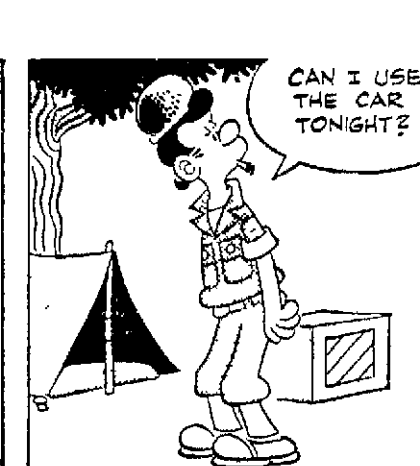

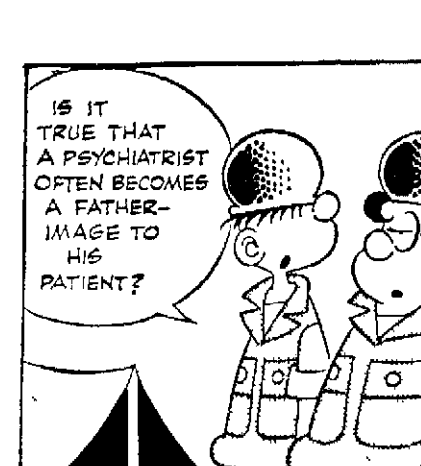

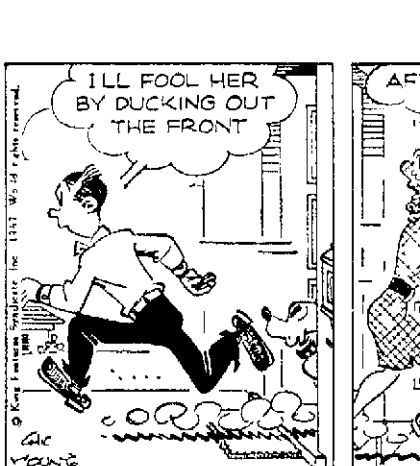

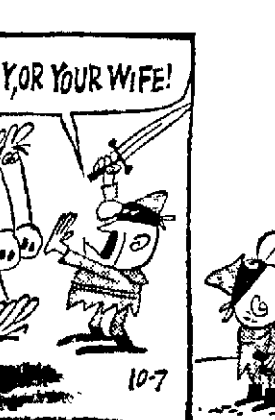

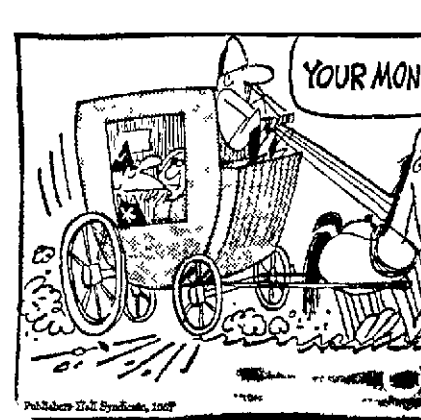

Toss Them Out
The players take turns. The first one to build up a score of 500 points is the winner of the game.
If two or more clothespins land on each other as in Figure 3, none of them will count.
MONDAY. Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Jail Sentence
Is ExtendedHortonville Youth
Found Guilty of Bad Check Charge

Rollie Bessett, 18, route 1, Hortonville, who just finished serving a 10-day jail sentence for a game violation and then was sentenced to 30 days more for altering his identification card, Friday afternoon had another two months added to the term when he was found guilty of issuing two worthless checks last June.

Bessett had pleaded innocent to the worthless check charges when he pleaded guilty last Tuesday of forging his identification card. Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller at that time set trial for Friday afternoon.

The youth came downstairs from jail without an attorney Friday, and told the judge he understood the trial was to be Oct. 16. Judge Keller ordered the trial to continue. Five witnesses had been summoned for the state.

Worthless Checks
Bessett was charged with issuing worthless checks for $10 each on June 10 and June 12 at the H. C. Prange Co.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer called five witnesses. They were Thomas J. Clifford Jr., assistant cashier at the First National Bank of Appleton, who said that April 11 was the last date Bessett had a "plus balance" in his checking account — which the bank closed Sept. 20; Mrs. Marion Voigt, office supervisor at Prange's; Mrs. Virginia Kaufman, office cashier at the Appleton store; Mrs. Bernice Heilberger, credit and office manager at Prange's; Sheriff Norbert Marx; and Mrs. Rita Lampman, secretary to the district attorney.

Bessett did not testify. Judge Keller, in setting the two-month sentence, ordered it be served consecutively with the 30-day term Bessett is now serving. The court also took into consideration a $10 worthless check Bessett issued June 5 at Treasure Island, although the youth was not formally charged with that offense.

Bullets Hit Truck in Violence Linked With Truck Drivers' Strike

FOND DU LAC (AP)—Eight bullets were fired into a parked truck Friday night in what the Fond du Lac County sheriff's office described as violence apparently linked to a seven-state truck drivers' strike.

The target of the gunfire was a Spector Freight System Inc. truck parked by driver David Gabel outside his home in rural Eden.

Gabel told the sheriff's office he heard the shots about 9:20 p.m. Three of the slugs, described by Sheriff Harry Kozak as "larger than 22 caliber," were found in the radiator and headlight area.

Kozak, who said the incident was apparently associated with a strike of independent haulers, said another driver, Ronald Brink of Ripon, reported earlier this week that spikes had been driven into his tractor-trailer rig.

Mormons Assign Pair
California Students To Do Missionary Work in Midwest

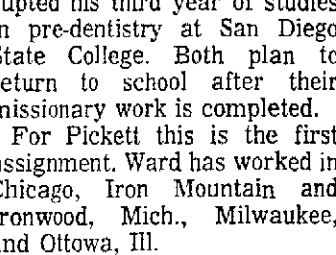

Two California college students will spend a winter in the Midwest this year as part of a home missionary program of the Mormon Church.

Elders H. B. Pickett, 19, Burbank, and James M. Ward, 20, San Diego, have been assigned by the church to cover the Appleton area, talking to people about their faith.

Pickett has one year of studies in a Los Angeles College in general engineering. Ward interrupted his third year of studies in pre-dentistry at San Diego State College. Both plan to return to school after their missionary work is completed.

For Pickett this is the first assignment. Ward has worked in Chicago, Iron Mountain and Ironwood, Mich., Milwaukee, and Ottawa, Ill.

The missionary program of the Mormon Church (also known as the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints) has been carried on with great success through the years with the majority of the youths volunteering the required two years to the program.

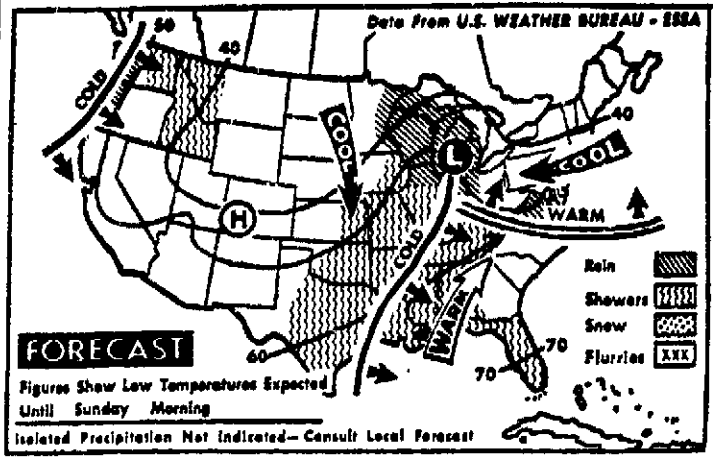

They are not reimbursed their expenses but are supported by either themselves or their parents during this time.

In Appleton the Mormon Church is at Park Ridge Lane and Division Street. Dr. Reed Anderson, Green Bay, recently replaced Beryl McClurg, as branch president. McClurg moved to Milwaukee.

The second part of the annual Mormon Conference will be telecast over Channel 5 from 9 to 10 a.m. Sunday. Participating will be the famed Mormon Choir.

Crime Lab Identifies George Schmidt Body From His Fingerprints

Appleton police disclosed late this morning that they have received positive identification from the Wisconsin State Crime Laboratory on the dissected body involved in last week's bizarre Schmidt case. The body was George Schmidt, 82. Identification, according to Detective Lt. Robert Frailing, was made by fingerprints.

Although two detectives talked for about an hour Friday with Mrs. George Schmidt in her hospital room, they would not reveal what they learned about the circumstances surrounding the discovery of a dismembered body believed to be that of her husband.

Det. Lt. Robert Frailing and Det. Leo Bosch went to the hospital after Mrs. Schmidt's doctor telephoned them late Friday morning and told them they could interview her. She has been in St. Elizabeth Hospital since early the morning of Sept. 28, after police, armed

Waupaca C of C / ssessment Considered

Group Needs More Money to Offset Major Expenditures

WAUPACA — To offset several large Chamber of Commerce expenditures this year directors voted Wednesday to place assessments on the 1968 membership dues.

Members paying from $20 to $40 will be assessed $5 and those paying more than $40 will be assessed $10.

Expenditures which created the fund shortage included the flower baskets which are attached to downtown street light posts. The chamber paid $900 of the $1,200 costs. Other expenditures were a public address system for Main Street which was installed for $700 and the purchase of $700 worth of office furniture.

A final decision on the assessment will be made by the budget committee.

Verbal Resignation
In other action G. H. Stordock reminded board members of his verbal resignation submitted at the September meeting. He suggested that the board start looking for a new secretary-treasurer. Stordock, who was hospitalized several weeks this summer, said because of his health he is unable to handle the work load of the two offices. He said he would continue as secretary until the annual meeting in January.

A nominating committee which will select a slate of candidates for next year and a banquet committee for the annual meeting were named. The nominating committee will consist of Norman Peterson, chairman; Earl Larson and Melvin Mather. On the banquet committee are C. Kenneth Peterson, chairman; Robert Neimuth, Richard Leinhardt and Stordock. It was suggested that an attempt be made to obtain Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, as speaker for the annual meeting.

Hostesses were Mrs. August Zander, Mrs. George Gresen, Mrs. Rhinard Gruel, Mrs. Walter Oestreich and Mrs. Edward Yohr.

Fellowship Plans Autumn Soiree

CLINTONVILLE — The Women's Christian Fellowship is planning "A Fall Soiree" from 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 26 in the undercroft of the Christ Congregational Church. Mrs. Robert Billings, Mrs. Arthur Henderson and Mrs. George McCauley are in charge of arrangements.

Stockbridge Mission to Begin Sunday

STOCKBRIDGE — A penitential cross about 100 years old, draped with a Winding Sheet to represent Christ's garments, is displayed in St. Mary Catholic Church here. It is a symbol of the Mission which starts Sunday, lasting for a week.

The hand-made cross was used in the original parish church here and at one time dates of former missions were carved in the wood. Because of its age and numerous coats of paint, the dates are no longer visible.

The last mission here was in 1954.

In charge of the mission, which begins at 8 p.m. Sunday, is the Rev. Robert Rebbholz, St. Louis, of the Redemptorist Order.

Daily masses with a sermon will be at 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Masses on Oct. 15 will be at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. with closing of the mission at 8 p.m. The parish choir society will be in charge of the sale of religious articles during the mission to which members of neighboring parishes are welcome.

No Comment

Schaefer would not comment, except to say that since the detectives were given permission to question Mrs. Schmidt, it must mean her health is improving. He also cited recent court decisions pertaining to releasing information obtained from suspects before a case comes to court.

Authorities also said they were not told how long Mrs. Schmidt, 82, would remain hospitalized.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps brought the pieces of a body found last week back to Appleton Friday afternoon from the State Crime Laboratory. Kemps said the body was "ready to be released" for burial. However, he said he would first have to obtain Mrs. Schmidt's authorization for burial, or would have to seek such authorization from a court if the elderly woman is incompetent.

Reveal Later

Although Kemps said that positive identification still has not been announced, he is awaiting word from the crime laboratory. Their findings could be revealed later today. Kemps said. Authorities have had little doubt, since finding a collection of body parts in the yard at 319 N. Division St., that the victim of the butcher slaying was Schmidt, an 82-year-old retired carpenter contractor who has been missing for more than two weeks.

Kemps said that the Schmidt family has a burial plot at Highland Memorial Park. He said he would release the dismembered body to the funeral home of Mrs. Schmidt's choice.

Kemps said earlier that he has not ruled out the possibility of calling a coroner's inquest to explore circumstances surrounding the strange case that unfolded with the discovery Sept. 25 of parts of a human foot found in a paper sack on the playground at old St. Joseph Catholic School.

Mrs. Lloyd Zeamer Leads Brillion Team

Honor Society Election

MARION — Officers have been elected by the high school National Honor Society. They are president, David Raether; vice president, Pat Hallop; secretary, Wendy Arndt, and treasurer, Kay Kreuger.

Bear Creek Bazaar

BEAR CREEK — A harvest social and bazaar will be held at the Grace Lutheran Church parlors from 3 to 8 p.m. Sunday. Needle work and garden produce will be on sale.

Concept of Death Examined At New London Seminar

NEW LONDON — About 100 area clergymen and funeral directors examined "The Funeral — Relic or Resource" at a seminar sponsored by the Wisconsin Funeral Directors this week.

Dr. Edgar N. Jackson, Corinth, Vt., noted author on death and grief, and Prof. Robert C. Slater, director of mortuary science, University of Minnesota, led the discussion.

"A person must cope with death to have a natural relationship to life — instead we move to separate death from life because it is a disease and the responsibility of doctors in our society," Jackson said.

"Doctors don't use the word death, they use accident. A patient doesn't die of a heart attack, he has a "cardiac accident," Jackson said.

Clintonville and Belle Plaine

Union Lutheran Worship Planned

CLINTONVILLE — St. Paul Lutheran Church will hold joint worship with St. Martin Lutheran Church at an Church, Belle Plaine, 9 a.m. Sunday. The Rev. W. Werling will discuss, "Our Lord Encourages A Faithful Congregation."

The United Methodist Church will have a 10:45 a.m. Sunday service. The Rev. Daniel H. Stahmer, D. D., will speak on "The Redemptive Fellowship."

Cosmetology is important in recognizing the fact of death. If a body wasn't prepared, a person would reject the fact of death because of repulsiveness, he said. Restoration must be at a median point.

Children shouldn't be lied to about death, the author said. They should be dealt with as human beings with delicate feelings and shouldn't be separated from the anxiety of adults around them.

Jackson warned against telling children that death is just like going to sleep, because children will have to go to sleep that night. Question them and find out what they want to know and then tell them the truth.

Ceremonies are important to children, and a funeral is just like a family parade, he concluded.

Calumet Bar Hits Tri-County Merger

Lutz Criticizes Lack of Study In Preparation of Measure

CHILTON — The Calumet County Bar Association has added its voice to the chorus of opposition to the proposed merger of Calumet, Winnebago and Outagamie counties in a letter to the bill's sponsors sent by the association's president, Robert W. Lutz.

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, and Assemblyman David Martin, R-Appleton, Neenah, are told that the "Bar Association has, by unanimous vote, indicated its opposition to any such proposal."

The letter goes on to state, "It is unconscionable that this proposal would be submitted in the form of a bill in the Assembly without any apparent prior discussion with leaders or officials of any of the three counties involved."

Cite Advantages

Pointing to the possible advantages of such a merger to some areas of the state in the future, the letter states that, "to attempt this here, without thorough study and investigation and without giving the approximate 230,000 people involved a voice in this decision, is in fact a disenfranchisement of the citizens of the three counties."

Saying that a merger of counties would require years of preparation, the letter adds that, "The people living here should have a right to decide whether these changes would be carried out, not the politicians in Madison."

"The best way to represent your constituents now would be the immediate withdrawal of the bill from all consideration."

County Asks Full Report On Jail Break

Escape Proves Embarrassing for Board Committee

Outagamie County Board law enforcement committee members, indicating they were "embarrassed" by the Monday night escape of two youths from the county jail, Friday morning asked for a full report of the incident from Sheriff Norbert J. Marx.

Two 17-year-old youths escaped from a juvenile detention cell about 9 p.m. Monday by sawing through bars with hacksaw blades which they obtained from a youth on the outside. They then tied blankets around them into a four-foot "rope" to get from the fourth floor to the ground.

Marx, in issuing the full report to the committee, said that "escapes happen" in jails, and explained that unlike a prison, a jail is "not a maximum security lockup." He said that his men check the cells regularly, and had done so shortly before Monday night's escape.

The sheriff also stated the escape was made easier because of the absence of "heavy screening" over the cell windows. Marx said the windows should be covered with screen. He also told the committee he has ordered his men to take tighter security measures.

Supv. Eugene Kloes of Appleton, committee chairman, said that the escape was "embarrassing to the county."

Explaining that it could have been men charged with serious offenses who escaped, Kloes said, "We have to think of the safety of the public."

Kloes also said he intended to investigate the possibility of having two jailers instead of one make the routine cell checks.

Full-time Aid Okayed by Committee

Citing a steadily increasing work load in the district attorney's office, the Outagamie County Board's law enforcement committee Friday afternoon voted unanimously to seek approval for a full-time assistant in the office.

The recommendation, which has been discussed for some time, will go to the executive committee along with a proposal to consider hiring a full-time public defender, if needed, according to committee members, because of increasing costs to the county of representing indigent defendants in court actions.

Committee members admitted the county public defender proposal was meant to "provoke thought," but indicated there was urgency in providing for a full-time assistant district attorney.

Sought Assistant

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer has, for some time, sought a full-time assistant. Although he did not appear at Friday's law enforcement committee meeting, he has appeared in the past, and recently submitted a letter outlining his reasons for the request. Schaefer now has a part-time assistant, district attorney.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, chairman of the law enforcement committee, explained that at the time Schaefer's letter was filed, the district attorney's office had 88 cases pending in county courts and was "backlogged" with trials to February of next year. "The district attorney's caseload is growing extremely heavy," Kloes explained.

County supervisors have become increasingly concerned in recent years over the mounting costs of hiring legal counsel for defendants in criminal actions who have no funds.

Cost $9,300

Indigent cost to the county in 1966 was $9,300 and in 1965 was $12,000. The 1967 figure is expected to come close to, or exceed, that of 1965. A defendant is found indigent after a hearing before the judge on his financial condition.

Last July, the board passed a resolution directing A. W. Ponath, county corporation counsel, to take necessary action to collect county money paid attorneys appointed by the court.

The full-time public defender, which the law enforcement committee envisions, would be under direct jurisdiction of the committee.

Appleton Supv. John R. Schreier said he feared the kind of public defender they were proposing would need a salary of $15,000 a year. Supv. George Greisch, also of Appleton, was asked to check into the "legal ramifications" of hiring a county public defender.

In other committee action Friday, it was agreed to place an advertisement in the newspaper seeking applicants for the newly-created position of county process server.

Biafra Fails in Apparent Bombing Run

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — A bomb-carrying plane exploded low over a residential suburb of Lagos early today, killing three crewmen, damaging two embassies and narrowly missing the home of a U.S. oil man.

There was no official report of where the twin-engine DC3 came from but it was assumed to have been from Biafra, the

500 Chicagoans Oppose Groppi Housing Marches

CHICAGO (AP) — About 500 members of Operation Crescent, a group opposed to the Rev. James Groppi's open-housing marches in Milwaukee, will go to Milwaukee Sunday to assist in counter demonstrations.

The counter demonstrations were planned by the Milwaukee Citizens Civic Association, which was formed three weeks ago. Adviser for the Milwaukee group is the Rev. Russell Witon, a Roman Catholic priest opposed to Father Groppi's tactics.

Operation Crescent, a coalition of 15 Chicago area community groups, will provide equipment, advice and money to the Milwaukee group, S. Thomas Sutton, OC president, said Friday.

Sutton said Chicago residents are interested in what is happening in Milwaukee "because it could happen in Chicago next."

"We plan to meet the open-housing marchers with counter demonstrations when they march into our communities," Sutton said. "They are convinced we will stay in our homes, but if they push us to a certain point, we will come out."

The Chicagoan said he and 50 "team captains" from Operation Crescent will assist in the organization of the Milwaukee groups.

secessionist Eastern region with which Nigeria has been fighting a civil war since July.

Flying at 300 feet, the plane appeared to have been on a course toward the Dodan barracks, where Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, head of Nigeria's military government, has his home.

Flash of Flame

Antiaircraft batteries opened up, apparently before the plane could drop its bombs. The aircraft blew up in a flash of flame and plunged into a lagoon a half mile from the barracks. Windows were broken up to a mile away.

Twenty yards from where the plane hit is the home of Floyd B. Inks, 42, of Austin, Tex., drilling supervisor for the Nigerian Gulf Oil Co.

Glass in the house was shattered but Inks, his wife Mickie and their 10-year-old daughter, Jeanna huddled on the floor of a bedroom and were not hurt. "God was with us tonight," Inks said.

The bodies of three crewmen were found hundreds of yards from the plane. One smashed through a roof and fell into the sitting room of the Czechoslovakian ambassador, another fell in the Czech Embassy's garden and the third was found behind the embassy's servants' quarters.

Two Nigerians were injured, the only casualties reported among Lagos residents.

The plane's landing gear slammed into a second-story office at the Ethiopian Embassy and the propeller landed on the doorstep of Ethiopian Ambassador Dawid Abdou. Other debris fell on the home of the Australian high commissioner.

Scientist Picks Canada Over Soviet Union

Former Nuclear Researcher Wants Freedom to Work

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — Boris Dotsenko, 41-year-old former chief nuclear scientist at the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences in Kiev, said Thursday night he will not return to the Soviet Union and wishes to live in Canada.

Dotsenko came to the University of Alberta a year ago on 10 months' leave from his position as head of the nuclear laboratory at Kiev State University.

He said in an interview that he applied to the Canadian immigration department two months ago and was granted a one-year extension of his stay in Canada, plus a promise that his application for permanent residence here will be considered at the end of the one-year period.

Dotsenko said he has had visits from Soviet Embassy officials who attempted to persuade him to return to his home country. He said he had rejected the officials' attempts.

Dotsenko was reported temporarily employed at the nuclear research center at the University of Alberta. He said his reasons for staying in Canada are both professional and political, with the professional reasons the more compelling.

"The main point is that I am a scientist and in the conditions here in Canada I can work far more effectively. There is a far more... well, I am not afraid to use the word—there is a far more democratic approach here."

He said in the Soviet Union there was too much emphasis on nuclear research that would have some immediate, practical effect and not enough on abstract research—research for the purpose of expanding the body of knowledge in a field, regardless of "practical" results.

Your Problems

Readers Hold Opposing Views On 'Honorable' Discharge

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't know who the "authorities" are that you checked with, but my common sense tells me you were wrong when you said the WAC who got pregnant by a married officer did not receive a dishonorable discharge. How could the military authorities consider such an act honorable?

If ever a person deserved a discharge, she did.

Please check again and tell your readers that the United States Army does not reward such disgraceful conduct by condoning it. Thank you. A Real American

Landers

Dear R.A.: Thank you for writing. The following letter should be of interest to you:

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the reader who wanted to know if it was possible that her WAC friend who was five months pregnant received a discharge that wasn't dishonorable. Please print this for her to see.

When I was a member of the WAC, my closest friend became involved with an enlisted man whom she did not want to marry. Her secret was so closely guarded that nobody knew she was pregnant. She looked a little heavy and we all teased her about it, but she laughed it off.

If it had not been for the required annual physical I believe she could have stayed in the service until the delivery date. As it was, she was separated from the service three weeks before the baby was born. The baby was put up for adoption and my friend re-enlisted within 90 days, which enabled her to keep her rank of Specialist Fourth Class.

I am proud that the United States Army takes this enlightened view toward out-of-wedlock pregnancy. They do not make a girl pay the rest of her life for one mistake. Please print my letter so all Americans can be as proud of their country as I am. An Ex-Wac.

Dear Ann, I hope the engaged couple will take your advice and say no to the girl's parents who are pressuring them to move into an apartment at the back of their home. We had the same problem and it nearly broke up our marriage.

My parents insisted we move in with them when we returned from our honeymoon. They made it real easy — no rent, just buy the groceries. It was fine for two weeks and then the trouble began. They heard every argument Tom and I had and came right in to referee. My dad began to boss Tom and give him all kinds of unwanted advice. Whenever we had company, my

Mrs. G. folks walked in and sat down.

Dear Heloise: To protect the spouts of my china teapots even when stored on the shelf, I slip a rubber furniture tip over the spout.

The tips come in different sizes and will certainly prevent those unsightly chips.

Mrs. G. folks walked in and sat down.

When our son was born my mother took over. I could hardly get near him. This was the last straw. We announced that we were moving into our own place. My folks were so hurt they cried. We moved anyway.

Two years have passed and I can truthfully say we never knew real happiness until we got into a place of our own. So please, Ann, keep dishing out that hardboiled, but sensible advice. And repeat that last sentence of advice to the engaged couple. It was a gem. For You about 50 miles southwest of Saigon. Air Force jets supported them and at dusk the battlefield was lighted by flares from Spookies—night-fighting planes with Gatling guns.

The battle began when a company of U.S. 9th Division infantrymen, pushing in aboard armed naval landing ships, ran into fierce guerrilla fire. Two more companies were sped up the narrow streams to help.

The size of the Communist force was not known. Viet Cong is known, however, to have a battalion, about 500 men, in the area.

Sporadic Fighting

Two hours after dark the guerrillas began to fade away, but sporadic firing continued until dawn today, when two battalions of infantrymen, perhaps 1,500 men, went out to hunt them.

Far to the north, American infantrymen of the Americal Division said they killed 39 guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars in running fights across two provinces of the 1st Corps area. The heaviest action was in dense jungle west of Tam Ky where 23 guerrillas were killed.

American losses were seven killed and 11 wounded.

The U.S. Marine outpost of Con Thien, on possible infiltration routes just below the demilitarized zone, received only 10 rounds of North Vietnamese artillery fire Friday. One Leatherneck was killed and three wounded. It was about the lightest shelling of the scarred base since mid-August, when Red guns began barrages that reached a peak of 1,000 shells in one day, Sept. 25.

I save my breakfast coffee grounds daily and use them to wash out baby bottles. I pour about an ounce of water and a teaspoon of grounds into each bottle, give it several vigorous shakes then wash as usual with detergent.

It's amazing how they do sparkle. A bottle brush just doesn't catch every corner of those bottles but the grounds leave them clean as can be.

I gave my 19-year-old son one I think is hard to beat... a collect phone call home every month. If it must be pressed, always press on the wrong side. We recommend using a steam iron. This must be done lightly and quickly. And the reason is that the nap should not collect too much steam.

If any corduroy garment has a lining, dry cleaning is recommended — either professional or by coin-operated dry cleaning machines.

The reason for this is that manufacturers of corduroy do not know what kind of lining is used. Sometimes the lining in garments will shrink (especially if it's an inexpensive cotton), so I urge you to pass on these small hints to your readers.

Gov. Reagan and the Wisconsin Primary

California's handsome Gov. Ronald Reagan has come to Wisconsin and has demonstrated the personal appeal which helped him win his landslide victory over an incumbent Democratic administration in a campaign which started out with statements that the whole idea of a movie star running for governor was pretty silly. Gov. Reagan left many state Republican strategists in Milwaukee last weekend making comparisons to the way in which former President John Kennedy was all but mobbed on his early campaign trips to Wisconsin.

If there was any doubt about it before in Wisconsin, there should not be now. Depending upon political circumstances next year, chief among them whether leading candidates are eliminated or damaged in state primaries, Gov. Reagan could be among those in top contention when the Republican national convention picks a presidential nominee. Whether this pre-election testing will include a test for Gov. Reagan himself in Wisconsin's new wide-open primary remains to be seen for there may be a way for the governor to avoid having his name on the ballot should he choose to do so.

Gov. Reagan's Wisconsin visit demonstrated that his greatest talent, particularly as viewed by conservatives, is to voice criticism of big government and social trends which have a "nothing can be done about it" standing with many voters. The visit also demonstrated, however, that the governor must still face reality on the main issue before the nation, the war in Vietnam. But Gov. Reagan has more time and flexibility in that regard than Republican presidential candidates who are already on the firing line and who have more firm records on this issue.

Persons on welfare who are able should be employed on public works as in the WPA days, it really is possible to put a lid on growing bureaucratic payrolls and spending habits, and the private economy could be doing a better job of training the unemployed than the anti-poverty government programs are doing, Gov. Reagan said. California saves $192,000 by not printing state road maps with the governor's picture on the cover, the governor told an audience from a state which prints road maps with the governor's picture on the cover.

"Government's job is to protect society from the lawbreaker, not the other way around," Gov. Reagan said in the remark which gained the loudest and longest applause.

The nation's disappointment and frustration from urban turmoil, evermore government in Washington, and a probable income surtax will make many voters agree with the governor. But if he is to become a presidential contender next year, he must start talking in specifics, particularly about Vietnam.

To Gov. Reagan, on the basis of his Milwaukee visit, Vietnam is a simple thing. The most powerful nation on earth should simply crush in short order little North Vietnam. The responses of Russia and Red China and the total American strategy in balancing peace with its two major competitors are not part of the Reagan policy of the moment.

The Wisconsin primary is becoming more important with Gov. Reagan's rising stature. Some backers of Richard Nixon worry that he will drain away votes from their candidate if Gov. Reagan's name is on the ballot in a head to head battle between Mr. Nixon and Michigan Gov. George Romney. Gov. Reagan may be able to avoid the Wisconsin ballot since it will be prepared next February, a month before the governor will have to declare his favorite son candidacy under the laws of his own state.

If Gov. Reagan decides next year to become a compromise candidate at a deadlocked convention or after other candidates have faltered in primaries, his decision about what to do about the new Wisconsin primary law will become a crucial one for him.

De Gaulle Having Poll Trouble

President Johnson is not the only national leader whose popularity is waning, according to public opinion polls. President Charles de Gaulle's image no longer wears a halo to a lot of Frenchmen.

There is some of the same vicious criticism of De Gaulle as there is of President Johnson's failure to get out of the Vietnam war or to prevent violence in the streets. In Paris there are posters charging that France's national motto is now "Liberte, Egalite, Senilite." But the opposition has taken more practical form than merely slurring remarks or nasty names.

In the National Assembly De Gaulle holds a slim majority because the leader of the Independent Republicans chooses to cast the 44 Assembly votes he controls in favor of De Gaulle — right now. Valery Ciscard d'Estaing, once De Gaulle's finance minister, wants the top position himself and sees an accord with De Gaulle right now as the best avenue to the palace. But three Gaullists were badly defeated in elections in Brittany, Normandy and southwestern France late in September, another lost out in an important municipal election and many were defeated in parliamentary elections last spring.

The reasons for the slipping of popularity and the growing number of critics are many. Les pleins pouvoirs, economic powers De Gaulle assumed last summer, are unpopular. Despite France's growing leadership in Europe, a lot of Frenchmen doubt De Gaulle's friendship with both West German and some of the Communist leaders. They see no sign that De Gaulle's trip to Warsaw woned the Poles away from the Soviet Union or encouraged them to take a gentler stand toward reunification of Germany. And while union with France may appeal to people in Quebec, it appears to leave most of those in France itself quite cold. The announcement of extensive economic aid to Quebec, soon after De Gaulle's hasty return, is not popular in Paris.

De Gaulle has actually literally dragged France into a position of world influence and general economic health. Despite their reputation for adherence to democratic principles, Frenchmen seem to turn to strong leaders at least once in every generation. But the reaction which must invariably set in with as emotional a people as the French seems to have arrived. It is quite likely that, when De Gaulle is gone, France will be once more torn by small factions while united action for almost anything will be hard to maintain.

But De Gaulle has a mandate from the public to rule until 1972 unless fate and his advancing years step into the picture. And despite some foolishness and an arrogance that is almost unbelievable, Charles de Gaulle has turned out to be one of the great leaders of the century.

Not the Taxpayers' Cost

A system whereby Wisconsin contractors add three-tenths of one per cent to their bids on public works projects to help support their state organization has been declared illegal by a Dane County circuit court. Judge Richard Bardwell put his finger precisely on the reason for the illegality of such an arrangement when he said, "The public is actually supporting the chapter (Associated General Contractors) by paying the cost of support agreements. That's not a legal way to get their dues."

The state organization had asked the court to declare the system legal. The state entered the suit when Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette directed the state engineer to withdraw the portion of construction costs that would go to the AGC on public projects. Although the court was concerned primarily with the assessment arrangement on state projects, Judge Bardwell's opinion that it is illegal also should extend to public works contracts at all levels of government. This is especially so since attorneys for the contractors' group admitted to the court that they could not show that the assessment system did not increase the cost of bids.

Some idea of what the three-tenths of one per cent assessment means in terms of additional expense to be borne by the public to finance the contractors' group can be gained from very simple arithmetic. A $100,000 job means an additional $300; a $1 million job $3,000, all at public expense to support a private organization. The AGC undoubtedly is of value to its members by keeping them informed of trends, problems, and solutions in the contracting industry. Assuming the merits to members, they should pay their own way and not expect the public, through the assessment on public projects, to do so for them.

Judge Bardwell was right in declaring the arrangement illegal. Eliminating the three-tenths of one per cent from construction bids annually entered into by the state, cities, villages, towns and counties in the state will save the taxpayers substantial sums at a time when all levels of government are struggling just to keep even with skyrocketing costs.

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — In the small hours each morning the muffled tapping of teletype machines in carrier ready rooms and Air Force operations shacks signals the beginning of another day's bombing raids on North Vietnam.

Operations officers at bases in Thailand and Vietnam and aboard the giant carriers in the Tonkin Gulf get the teletype printer "frag orders" outlining the day's missions.

While pilots still sleep, their names are assigned, the planes are designated, types of bombs noted. On a busy day the frag order will outline the work of perhaps 800 individual flights. The frag order is the term stand for fragmentary order, meaning a breakdown of activities — sometimes in general terms. For big missions it contains minute detail.

The air commanders in Vietnam have wide latitude to assign targets in relatively non-sensitive areas of North Vietnam. But for the big targets, the frag orders filter all the way down from the secret war rooms in Washington where decisions are made by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, with President Johnson looking over their shoulders.

The filtering process is long and frustrating. The 7th Air Force commander in Vietnam, recently described it this way: "As you well know, the targets come down to me from my next higher headquarter, PACF (Pacific Air Force, Honolulu), and he gets his targets from CINCPAC (Commander in Chief Pacific), Adm. Sharp's (Adm. Ulysses Grant Sharp) headquarters. And obviously Adm. Sharp makes recommendations to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff send the targets back to him."

While noting there were off-limits targets which could be hit, Momyer added: "I look at my job here as taking what is given to me and doing the best I can with it."

Momyer's comments reflect the dispute now raging over the assignment of targets in North Vietnam and the restrictions on air power. At the command level in Vietnam, officers almost universally feel they should have more freedom in selecting targets.

Economics Teaching in High School Is Aim of Chamber of Commerce

MADISON — Recent surveys reveal an appalling disinterest in business as a career among many students. Some even record a strong disdain for anything touched by free enterprise.

Newly installed officers of the Kimberly Junior American Legion were Barbara DeBruin, chairman; Mary Ann Acker, vice chairman; Mary Sue DeBruin, secretary-treasurer; Mary Pat Fiers, historian, and Kathy Vanden Boogard, chaplain.

Donald E. Bonk, Chilton, was named chairman of the Calumet County Democratic Party. He succeeded Robert A. Collins.

Privately, they accuse Washington of frequently playing a numbers game. For instance, Washington will say that such and such a target was on the list submitted by field commanders and was bombed and consequently the field commanders should be happy. But the officers point out, Washington does not add that no follow-up raid was authorized.

Many targets have been hit only once when the air power planners would like to hit them repeatedly. Air power planners also say it sometimes takes frustratingly long to clear some targets like the Hanoi-Haiphong rail line.

PRIME TARGETS UNHIT
In addition to wanting permission for follow-up raids, the fliers still have some prime unhit targets on their lists.

Foremost among these are the MIG airfields at Phuc Yen and Gia Lam. Phuc Yen is now the main MIG base in North Vietnam and the area also shelters the Russian-Chinese-North Vietnamese Air defense center. Gia Lam is the main civil airport for Hanoi, in addition to being a MIG base and airfield comparable to Saigon's jammed Tan Son Nhut.

The port facilities at Cam Pha have been hit only once, and this is North Vietnam's third biggest port and the center from which coal is exported to the Communist bloc (about North Vietnam's only export). The second biggest port of Hon Gai has never had its dock facilities hit although warplanes have struck nearby installations.

The buffer zone near the Chinese border, about 25 miles wide, is rarely penetrated despite such well publicized raids as one recently which dropped a bridge only seven miles from the frontier.

Haiphong's port facilities, of course, are the biggest untouched plum. And within the Haiphong-Hanoi area are some big storage dumps equally untouched.

In recent weeks, American planes have ranged up and down the two main rail lines which radiate northeast and northwest from Hanoi to the border of Communist China. The targets on these major supply arteries have been mainly bridges, rail yards and rail sidings — many of them attacked for the first time and some close to the Chinese frontier. The closest so far was the strike against the bridge seven miles from the border and less than one minute away as the jet flies.

From January through July this year, U.S. fighter-bombers have averaged 13,000 sorties — individual plane strikes — per month over the north. Three quarters of these sorties were against roads, rail lines, trucks — the lines of communications and the supplies moving on them. Officials estimated 1,900 fixed targets have been attacked including bridges, troop barracks, oil storage tanks and power plants.

Air policy spokesmen in Vietnam, aware of the pressures from Washington, won't talk about numbers of percentages in relation to targets which have been hit or should be hit.

Almost unanimously, however, they will say privately that the policy of using air power in piecemeal bits is not the way they would like to fight the war.

People Should Take Time to Praise Those Who Are Lonely

Editor, Post-Crescent,

In reading over all the horrible details of the tragic occurrence of last week, I noticed one little sentence which could bring a timely message to all of us. It appeared in Sept. 28 paper and concerned the sister-in-law of Mrs. Schmidt's neighbor who took the time to praise Mrs. Schmidt on her pretty flowers and tomato plants. As the article stated, on the two following mornings the neighbors found two bags on their back porch which contained flowers and tomatoes.

This little gesture shows what those words of praise meant to Mrs. Schmidt, and were probably the only friendly, complimentary words that have been spoken to her in many, many years. She probably was starved for a little recognition and friendliness, and even though those who knew her for some time found her to be very unfriendly and uncommunicative, it must have meant a great deal to her. I am sure we all know someone who answers this description and find it much easier to just ignore them.

NEED FOR EDUCATION

The real question is — will our schools incorporate it in their course of studies? We in the State Chamber of Commerce feel so strongly about the need for economic education in our schools that we asked a number of legislators to introduce a bill requiring it be taught in our school systems. Thirty-four assemblymen, representing both political parties are sponsors of the bill which would integrate comprehensive economic education in course from the first grade through the senior year in high school. Believe it or not, but surveys show that 80 per cent of all high school seniors have had NO course in economics.

GOP Worried by Reagan's Strength

Grass Roots Boom Beginning To Worry Nixon Supporters

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
MILWAUKEE — Just before Gov. Ronald Reagan left California for last week's three-day, three-state speaking tour, a highly placed Wisconsin Republican leader telephoned Reagan's key political advisers in Sacramento with a significant message.

That same message was pressed upon Reagan by other state party leaders last Saturday afternoon (Sept. 30) when Reagan arrived in Milwaukee. It boiled down to this: Governor, if you really don't want to run in the Wisconsin Presidential primary next April, there are plenty of loopholes for you to crawl through.

Reagan finessed the issue at his Saturday press conference by saying he hadn't fully studied the matter. In fact, the effort by the Wisconsin leaders failed. It is almost certain that a bipartisan state commission will put Reagan's name on the primary ballot and that Reagan will not sign the affidavit necessary to remove it.

However, the Wisconsin play is less important for its failure than for two interrelated political facts it brings to light. First, the regular party hierarchy is solidly behind Richard M. Nixon — not Reagan — for the Presidential nomination. Second, the hierarchy recognizes the phenomenal growth of Reagan's strength at the Republican grass roots and fears what that portends for Nixon.

In essence, the old Goldwater movement which still dominates the Republican party structure is now split. The company commanders — state party officials, county chairman, fund raisers — are for Nixon. But the foot soldiers — those stoutly conservative volunteers — never fully cottoned to Nixon and now are defecting to Reagan by the thousands.

The split is apparent in Wisconsin. The entire state party

Two Poultry Firms Get Judgments

Anti-Trust Decision Reached Against Doughboy, Midwest

MADISON (AP) — Anti-trust action against Doughboy Industries and Midwest Finance Co., both of New Richmond, has been concluded by a court judgment.

Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette said Thursday the judgment enjoins Doughboy and Midwest from "threatening to drive or driving any person out of the turkey feed or poultry business."

Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles was secretary-treasurer of Doughboy before he became the state's chief executive.

La Follette, a Democrat, said that under the judgment, the two firms are required to publish or make available to any customer their current turkey poult and feed prices.

The suit, which was commenced about two years ago, charged Doughboy and Midwest with a conspiracy to restrain the sale of turkey feed and the poult business in Wisconsin.

The judgment, signed by Circuit Judge A. W. Parnell of Appleton, also provides that the two firms be required to sell to all customers without requiring them to purchase affiliated services or equipment. It restrains the companies from entering agreements or contracts requiring that buyers purchase poult from hatcheries designated by the firms.

Sheinwold Right Play Depends on The Hand

The standard play to avoid the loss of a trump trick is to lead the queen of hearts from dummy for a finesse. The point about this hand is that South cannot tell at the beginning how anxious he is to avoid the loss of a trump trick.

South is sure to lose a diamond and a spade. If South must also lose a club he must avoid the loss of a trump. If South can find a way to dispose of the club loser he need not worry about the trumps.

South should find out about the trumps by finding out about the clubs, which means that he must test the spades. It sounds more complicated than it really is. South wins the first trick with the king of clubs and immediately leads a low spade.

Takes King. As the cards lie, West steps up with the king of spades and returns a club to dummy's ace. Now South knows that he will not lose a club trick.

Declarer cashes the queen of spades and returns to his hand with the ace of trumps in order to discard dummy's last club on the ace of spades. South cannot risk the trump finesse since that would allow West to take the king of trumps and a club trick as well.

After discarding dummy's club, South can lead another trump. The rest is easy.

If East had the king of spades, South would be unable to develop a spade trick and would therefore have to lose a club. This would force him to try the trump finesse in the hope of avoiding the loss of a trump trick.

How does your income rate? You are in the upper half of all families in the U. S. if your family income is $7,400 or more. This is how high the median income has risen in our country (median means half the families are above and half below the figures).

You are in the upper third of all families if your income is $10,000 or more. A full 30 per cent — or about 14.5 million —

That there is a painful difference between the financial position of the white and nonwhite family also is indisputable. The average income of the nation's 5 million nonwhite families is $4,628. The average for the nation's 44 million white families is $7,722. A significant 30 per cent of the no white families are below the $3,000 poverty level; only 12.4 per cent of the white families are.

That education makes a tremendous difference in incomes is indisputable too. The median income for the self-employed professional is $16,000. For private household workers it's $2,773.

Bright Background. Still, the black spots stand out so dramatically because they are against a generally bright background — and the forces creating that background should not be scoffed at either.

We have not discovered — or at least agreed to follow the proper policies to achieve prosperity without inflation. But we have found and agreed to follow the policies which create prosperity with inflation. We have had no recessions since the start of this decade and all the recessions since World War II have, in fact, been comparative, if short and mild. In every year — in good times and bad — family incomes have climbed to new records. In 1960 the average for the country was $3,319. Today's level is much more than double that.

Here is a table from Bureau of Census statistics to help you find yourself on the income scale. It includes all families, white and nonwhite.

Total Family Income	No. of Families	%
$ 3,000 to $3,999	3,341,000	6.9
$ 4,000 to $4,999	3,474,000	7.1

John Cassavetes, Pioneer in the underground movie, is a star actor these days. He poses with Mia Farrow, his co-star in the modern horror tale called "Rosemary's Baby." Although choice roles are coming his way now, Cassavetes continues to plow his earnings back into the underground film "Faces." He hopes it will justify the promise he evidenced in "Shadows." Pioneer of So-Called Underground Film, Plans to Return to Unfinished 'Faces'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The acting career of John Cassavetes has surfaced once more permitting him another trip to the underground.
This explains. As any student of the new cinema knows, Cassavetes was a pioneer in the underground movie. Between acting jobs in films and television, he directed an improvised film in New York, using pick-up crews and unknown actors. It was released in 1961 as "Shadows" and critics hailed it as a fresh breath of air in what was then a stale movie atmosphere.
"I was brought to Hollywood as a director, and I don't know what the hell I was doing," he recalls. "I made one bad picture, then I had a terrific fight with Stanley Kramer on another one. And then I did nothing."
Two Failures
The first film was a jazz saga with Bobby Darin and Stella Stevens, "Too Late Blues." The Kramer film, called "A Child is Waiting," seemed ill-fated from the outset. It dealt with handicapped children and starred the incongruous combination of Burt Lancaster and Judy Garland. Both movies were failures.
The following period was a difficult one, Cassavetes admitted. Not only was his promising career as a director smashed, he discovered he was in little demand as an actor.
"It's quite unnerving to find yourself considered a mediocre actor," said the New York-born, Colgate-educated Cassavetes, 38. "But still, there are ways of making money in Hollywood even if you don't work, and I found out how to manage them. All you have to do is make deals. So the pictures are never made. You get paid anyway."
Started 'Faces'
But the deal-making paled on such a creative man as Cassavetes. Once again he cut out on his own as a film maker, fashioning a feature about the middle years. Again he used volunteer crewmen, but this time he employed some professional performers, including his wife, Gena Rowlands. The name of the film: "Faces."
Cassavetes was in the midst of shooting "Faces" last year when he drew an interview for a film role. He was offered a part as one of the criminal-soldiers in "The Dirty Dozen."
"It would have been my first picture in six years, and I hesitated," he said. "The assignment meant suspending 'Faces' for months and taking my family to England, which would probably cost me $20,000. But I decided to take the chance."
Now he's glad he did. "The Dirty Dozen" has proved a smash hit, and many observers

'Coon Lodge Setting for Gleason Show

BY TV SCOUT
6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — The Racoon Lodge becomes the focal point of The Jackie Gleason Show which assures a good starting point. It is another original musical with Ralph as the Racoon treasurer in a panic when he loses the total Racoon treasure, $200. He and Norton are appalled at the size of their loss and know of only one way to quickly acquire so large a sum: the race track. Art Carney, Sheila MacRae and Jane Kean are featured in this definitely Damon Runyonesque episode. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — A young man, listed only as Shahid, successfully essays a most difficult role on Maya, that of a boy raised by tigers and possessing their qualities including the low guttural growls and the full-throated roars. There is much more to this fine acting job, for Maya is forced to kill a tigress, the animal which had raised him, and in his depraved hysteria, jungle vengeance with human canniness take over his characterization. (C)

7:30-8 (Channel 2) — Several million misty eyes will be focused on My Three Sons tonight in as typical and natural a wedding scene as you'll ever see on TV. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5) — It's Get Smart's smart turn to pull the popular trick of duplicating their stars and most effectively too. If there is anything funnier than one Don Adams, would you believe it is two? (C)

8-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — As improbable as it may sound, Hogan's Heroes comes up with a believable plot and the comedy seems to hurt for it. It's about a German pilot who is a double for a captured British pilot. (C)

8-10 (Channels 4-5) — "Man's Favorite Sport" on Saturday Night at the Movies is far from first rate. Laura Prentiss, starring in the series He and She, is featured with Rock Hudson and John McGiver in a very small effort about a world renowned fisherman who can't fish and a

Emphysema Sufferer Says Exercise Helps

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D. Dear Dr. Molner: I would like to tell you how much I appreciate your 10-cent booklet on emphysema (obtainable by anyone sending 10 cents in coin and

I understood that the exercises would help keep the emphysema from getting worse but had not expected them to lessen the discomfort but they have.

I had complained of this trouble for several years before a doctor realized what I had. Most had blamed it on nerves. — Mrs. C.P.

Dr. Molner

a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner care of The Post-Crescent) which I received from you.

I have been doing the exercises for two months. My breathing is greatly improved and I do not believe it is just coincidence.

Delightful news! No, breathing exercises are not intended to prevent the emphysema from getting worse, but most definitely are intended to make your breathing improve.

Emphysema is a loss of elasticity in the lungs. A normal lung is much like a sponge, with a vast number of alveoli, or tiny air sacs, in which oxygen is transferred to the bloodstream in exchange for carbon dioxide, which is then exhaled.

As large numbers of these tiny sacs break down (leaving one large sac instead of many small ones) you cannot squeeze as much air out of the lungs as you exhale; consequently you cannot draw as much fresh air in when you breathe.

Preventing the emphysema from getting worse (that is, from further breakdown of the tiny air sacs, and thus a loss of ability to expel air) depends most importantly on avoiding irritation of the lungs: Giving up smoking is a must. Avoiding respiratory diseases, including colds, is important. Suppression of infections, if any, is obvious and if they do occur — prompt treatment is a must.

The breathing exercises, however, are designed to give you maximum intake of fresh air within the capabilities of your impaired lungs, in spite of the emphysema. They doubtless help, in a secondary way, in prevention by keeping the active parts of your lungs operating as normally as possible.

It is not surprising that your breathing troubles, in the past, were blamed on "nerves," because it is only in fairly recent years that we have come to recognize emphysema for what it is — an extremely prevalent lung ailment which can be alleviated (although not cured) if we apply logical treatment and logical living habits, and proper breathing is one of the most helpful.

For greatest comfort and best results it is absolutely imperative that the patient do his part. The doctor can do only so much for him.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a cousin who tells me she has four or five heart attacks a week and that she is very ill. I might be wrong but I didn't think it was possible to have so many heart attacks and live.—H.

I decline to guess whether your cousin is really ill or is just talking up some sympathy — or trying to.

But you can be sure that she isn't having heart attacks — real coronary occlusions. She may be having "skipped" beats, or various flutterings of the heart, real or imaginary, but they aren't "heart attacks." She may have Angina Pectoris.

Levy in Winnebago County To Increase 20 Per Cent

Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Town of Menasha Will be Hit Hardest by '69 Budget

OSHKOSH — Costs to local municipalities and towns will increase considerably if the proposed 1968 Winnebago County budget is passed without major changes.

As the budget now stands, a tax levy of more than $3 million will be spread among the 16 towns, one village and four cities in the county.

However, County Auditor M. H. Morrisette has indicated the county could safely apply at least $200,000 in surplus funds against this levy.

If this is done, the average increase to communities will be about 20 per cent over the 1967 levies to the individual communities.

Hardest Hit

Hardest hit would be the four areas with the greatest valuation in the county—the cities of Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha and the Town of Menasha.

The City of Neenah paid $475,254 as its share of the 1967 county budget. As the 1968 budget now stands, Neenah would have to pay approximately $555,000. Oshkosh would increase from about $800,000 to $950,000.

Town of Menasha would increase from about $265,000 to about $320,000; City of Menasha from about $310,000 to $360,000.

Some of the other more populous towns and their estimated costs include Town of Neenah, from about $75,000 to about $92,000; Town of Oshkosh, from $75,000 to $88,000; Town of Algoma, from $60,000 to $72,000; Town of Black Wolf, from $47,000 to $55,000, and Town of Winchester from $17,000 to $20,000.

The county board will start work on the record $8.3 million budget Oct. 24 and reductions in the requests are expected to be made.

Surplus Is In Budget of Park Division

The $38,000 surplus from its 1966 budget which the Appleton Park-Recreation Commission to date has declined to turn over to the city treasury is not in the recreation department account.

"We have been getting a lot of inquiries why the money isn't being used for recreation programs," commented Lloyd Koehnke, municipal recreation director.

Koehnke, referring to the audit report that disclosed the surplus existed in commission funds, said it was in the park division budget — not recreation.

A commission spokesman said recently a full explanation will be given at the next meeting as to why the funds have not been returned to the general fund as per state statute.

NEENAH — Lyle A. Perkins, 1438 Indian Point Road, reported to police his black and white Honda motorcycle was stolen about 6 p.m. Friday.

Impact of Budget

Neenah School System Likened To Small Industry by Pertain

NEENAH — With the announcement that approval of a $4.9 million school budget is being sought for 1968, Andrew Pertain, finance committee chairman, has asked the citizenry to look at the other side of the coin.

An increase in taxes of $2.58 per $1,000 is not to be taken lightly, Pertain, chairman of the finance committee said, but Neenah should also look at the impact of the $2.6 million payroll that 420 people employed in the school earn and spend here.

He points out that the district purchases supplies and utilities to the tune of $725,000 a year.

More than 45 per cent of the district's 420 teaching and non-teaching employees are home owners within the school district and pay their share of the taxes to operate the schools.

The $683,000 bonded indebtedness of the district also must be considered in the light of benefit to the community. The school buildings belong to the district when they are paid for. Principal and interest payments amount to about 17 per cent of the total budget.

When buildings are constructed, local architects, contractors and services share in the exchange of dollars.

"The money which the district spends in one year, currently $4.1 million, represents about $160 per capita, or $100 for every man, woman and child in the district."

"The U. S. Chamber of Commerce 1965 survey shows that for every 100 jobs provided in a community, it means 359 more people, 90 more school children, $710,000 more in personal income per year, 100 more households, $229,000 more in bank deposits, 97 more passenger car registrations, $331,000 more in retail sales.

"Apply this formula to the 420 jobs the Neenah Joint School District provides and an honest appraisal of the tax assessment will result," Pertain indicated.

money spent here, and if the increased spending by stores in Park Plaza and new outlying areas will be sufficient are key questions.

There definitely will be a battle between the two daily newspapers. The new newspaper will undoubtedly be the underdog, despite its largest financial backing.

In the past decade a number of attempts have been made in cities big and small to establish new newspapers. Almost all have failed and heavy financial losses have almost always been the result. Some are still trying.

A syndicate in Atlanta lost $8 million; one in Minneapolis lost $6 million.

Perhaps the closest parallel to the Oshkosh situation occurred in Lima, Ohio, which is about the size of Oshkosh, a few years ago. A group with strong financial backing from labor founded a paper in competition with the established daily. The battle waged for a couple of years. The new paper passed the established paper in circulation. Still the established paper kept its advertisers, and the new paper died.

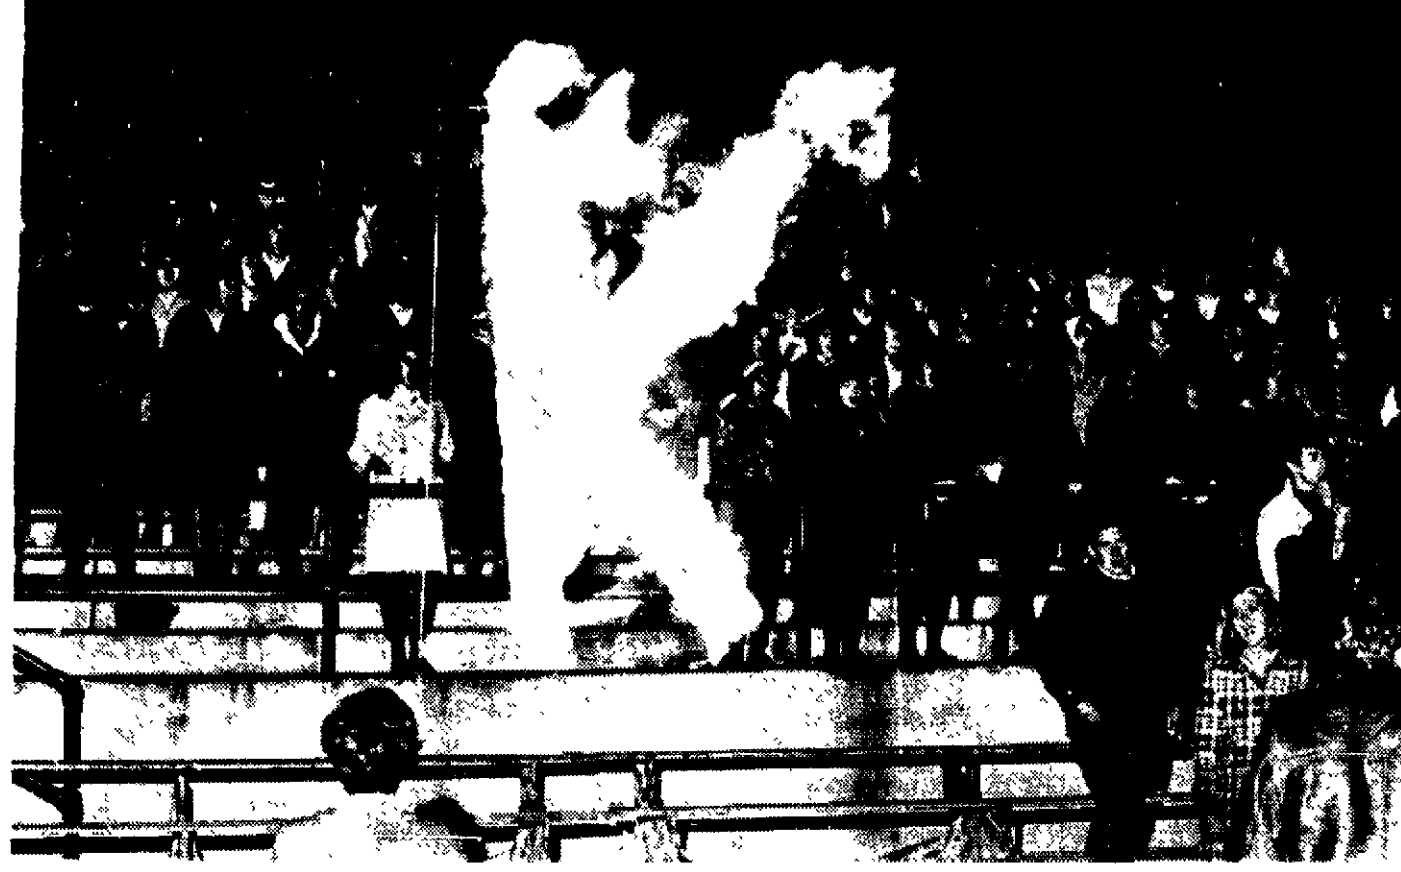

The trend in the newspaper industry is not toward new daily newspapers, in cities the size of Oshkosh and larger, but toward the demise of old ones. A number of big newspapers in competitive markets have folded recently, as competition for the advertising dollar and costs of production have escalated.

In order to survive, a newspaper needs advertising. About 75 per cent of the average daily newspaper's revenue is from advertising.

In order to get advertising, the average newspaper needs a lot of paid circulation, which provides the other 25 per cent.

So "The Paper" must get a significant number of new subscribers first. That may be difficult, for Oshkosh has always been an afternoon newspaper town. Will very many people switch their reading habits to take the new newspaper? How many will take two local daily newspapers?

Even if "The Paper" stole all of the Oshkosh circulation of the established daily, the battle would have only 1,000 or so subscribers. It must certainly make morning readers out of more people for it probably needs at least 50 cent coverage of the market or about 7,000 subscribers in order to sell much advertising.

The rally ended with a snake dance, below, and a record hop in the high school gym. Meanwhile, high school groups put the finishing touches on their float's for today's noon parade. Pilot Program on Pollution On Lakes Backed by Steiger

WASHINGTON — A proposed pilot program to experiment with ways of combatting lake pollution has been described as a significant step toward finding solutions, by Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

Steiger made the judgement regarding Interior Department endorsement of a bill that would provide $5 million to set up pilot projects in combatting lakeshore and riverbank pollution of types for which technology has not found solutions.

"Cleaning up the lakes in our nation must be given a high priority Lake Winnebago, in the Sixth (congressional) District, and similar lakes in Wisconsin are examples of inland lakes that need help.

"We don't at present possess the kind of technological knowledge necessary to solve their problems. The pilot program called for in this legislation is what I think is necessary to begin to work toward a solution."

Steiger submitted a bill proposing the pilot program, revising a previous bill after receiving comments from the Interior Department. The department was asked to comment on the bill by the House Committee on Public Works.

The department stressed that the bill would only set up an experimental pilot program, was Charles Iltis, Tom Koepke rather than beginning a full-scale anti-pollution project.

Although department officials believe existing legislation gives them the authority to set up such pilot projects under contract with municipalities, states and individuals, was Mike Gagnon, secretary of the department said it would welcome passage of the proposed bill to make the authority clear.

Steiger introduced the revised version of his bill Wednesday, eliminating from the original proposal standards as conditions for receiving grants.

Such provisions, due to the present lack of technological knowhow, would "only inhibit a research program," the department pointed out.

OSHKOSH — "The Paper for Oshkosh," a new daily newspaper published by Miles Kimball Co., will make its debut on most Oshkosh doorsteps Monday morning amidst rumor and speculation that has been brewing for a long, long time.

The first issue will end the speculation about what the new newspaper will look like. But there will still be much speculation about Oshkosh's ability to support two daily newspapers.

Will the new newspaper survive? Will it harm the Daily Northwestern, which has been publishing here in the afternoon for almost 100 years? Many have asked these questions many times in the past few months.

It is extremely unusual — perhaps unique — for a city of Oshkosh's size to have two newspapers published by two separate owners. Oshkosh will be the only community in the state in such a position. Perhaps it will be the only one in the country. The eyes of the newspaper industry will be on Oshkosh.

Help Proposed for District Attorney

Law Enforcement Group Votes for Full-time Help in County Office

Citing a steadily increasing work load in the district attorney's office, the Outagamie County Board's law enforcement committee Friday afternoon voted unanimously to seek approval for a full-time assistant in the office.

The recommendation, which has been discussed for some time, will go to the executive committee along with a proposal to consider hiring a full-time public defender, if needed, according to committee members, because of increasing costs to the county of representing indigent defendants in court actions.

Committee members admitted the county public defender proposal was meant to "provoke thought," but indicated there was urgency in providing for a full-time assistant district attorney.

Sought Assistant

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer has, for some time, sought a full-time assistant. Although he did not appear at Friday's law enforcement committee meeting, he has appeared in the past, and recently submitted a letter outlining his reasons for the request. Schaefer now has a part-time assistant, district attorney.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, chairman of the law enforcement committee, explained that at the time Schaefer's letter was filed, the district attorney's office had 88 cases pending in county courts and was "backlogged" with trials to February of next year. "The district attorney's caseload is growing extremely heavy," Kloes explained.

County supervisors have become increasingly concerned in recent years over the mounting costs of hiring legal counsel for defendants in criminal actions who have no funds.

Cost $9,300

Indigent cost to the county in 1966 was $9,300 and in 1965 was $12,000. The 1967 figure is expected to come close to, or exceed, that of 1965. A defendant is found indigent after a hearing before the judge on his financial condition.

Last July, the board passed a resolution directing A. W. Pon-wath, county corporation counsel, to take necessary action to collect county money paid at-torneys appointed by the court.

The full-time public defender, which the law enforcement committee envisions, would be under direct jurisdiction of the committee.

Appleton Supv. John R. Schreiter said he feared the kind of public defender they were proposing would need a salary of $15,000 a year. Supv. George Greisch, also of Appleton, was asked to check into the "legal ramifications" of hiring a county public defender.

In other committee action Friday, it was agreed to place an advertisement in the news-paper seeking applicants for the newly-created position of county process server.

30 New Residences in Appleton

New Home Construction Makes Sharp Comeback

New home construction — depressed in Appleton for several months — took a sharp upturn in September and appears to be gaining momentum this month.

Permits for 30 new residences valued at a half million dollars were issued last month by the building inspector's office, according to Director of Inspections Charles Magnette.

In general, September was an encouraging month for the Appleton construction picture with $1,281,285 in new building started.

Three commercial projects amounted to $712,000.

Healthy Comeback

Residential construction on the national level has been making a healthy comeback after a slow start in the spring. However, while most Fox Valley communities reflected considerable new housing activity during the summer — Appleton's action was slow.

In fact, Building Inspector

Richard Atkins said he was somewhat disappointed and could give no concrete reason for the weak residential construction showing in Appleton while activity in surrounding communities was moving at an increased pace. One theory was that more residents are moving into apartments, plus the fact the market had a good supply of quality

"sale" homes to offer.

Last month's local home building activity was twice the amount in September of 1966 when the industry suffered generally throughout the country.

During September of last year, permits were issued for 12 homes at an estimated cost of $234,000.

Another Good Month

Atkins indicated the spurt in new home construction has spilled over into October and predicted this would be another good month.

"One contractor came in the other day and took out permits for five new houses," Atkins said.

He explained contractors are now making their annual fall push to get projects underway so they are closed in by the time bad weather comes, and can be finished over the winter months.

With regard to apartments, permits for two complexes likely to cost in excess of $750,000 were issued earlier in the week to local and Milwaukee developers.

Police Question His Wife

Crime Lab Identifies George Schmidt Body From His Fingerprints

Appleton police disclosed late this morning that they have received positive identification from the Wisconsin State Crime Laboratory on the dissected body involved in last week's bizarre Schmidt case. The body was George Schmidt, 82. Identification, according to Detective Lt. Robert Frailing, was made by fingerprints.

Although two detectives talked for about an hour Friday with Mrs. George Schmidt in her hospital room, they would not reveal what they learned about the circumstances surrounding the discovery of a dismembered body believed to be that of her husband.

Det. Lt. Robert Frailing and Det. Leo Bosch went to the hospital after Mrs. Schmidt's doctor telephoned them late Friday morning and told them they could interview her. She has been in St. Elizabeth Hospital since early the morning of Sept. 28, after police, armed with a warrant to search her house at 319 N. Division St., found her sitting in her darkened basement. They said she apparently had attempted suicide.

Friday apparently was the first time authorities have been allowed to talk to the woman. The detectives said they had been told by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer to say nothing concerning the nature of their interview.

No Comment

Schaefer would not comment, except to say that since the detectives were given permission to question Mrs. Schmidt, it must mean her health is improving. He also cited recent court decisions pertaining to releasing information obtained from suspects before a case comes to court.

Authorities also said they were not told how long Mrs. Schmidt, 82, would remain hospitalized.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps brought the pieces of a body found last week back to Appleton Friday afternoon from the State Crime Laboratory. Kemps said the body was "ready to be released" for burial. However, he said he would first have to obtain Mrs. Schmidt's authorization for burial, or would have to seek such authorization from a court if the elderly woman is incompetent.

Reveal Later

Although Kemps said that positive identification still has not been announced, he is awaiting word from the crime laboratory. Their findings could be revealed later today, Kemps said. Authorities have had little doubt, since finding a collection of body parts in the yard at 319 N. Division St., that the victim of the butcher slaying was Schmidt, an 82-year-old retired carpenter contractor who has been missing for more than two weeks.

Kemps said that the Schmidt family has a burial plot at Highland Memorial Park. He said he would release the dismembered body to the funeral home of Mrs. Schmidt's choice.

Kemps said earlier that he has not ruled out the possibility of calling a coroner's inquest to explore circumstances surrounding the strange case that unfolded with the discovery Sept. 25 of parts of a human foot found in a paper sack on the playground at old St. Joseph Catholic School.

Milwaukee Convention Ends

Teachers Alert to Rights Fight

BY FERN SMITH Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — A new vigor, sharpened by the success of striking teachers throughout the country, will set the tempo when those who are members of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (WFT) begin bargaining during the coming year for better salaries and more control of schools.

Teachers' comments made this apparent when the 35th annual convention of the federation drew to a close Friday at the Pfister Hotel.

"Our work here during the past two days has shown what the task of the teacher is in regard to gaining effective schools," WFT President William Herziger, Menasha, said at the final panel dealing with "Bargaining Experiences in Wisconsin."

Talk of Strikes

Herziger continued, "throughout the conference the feeling has been more militant, there has been more talk about strikes, and there has been 100 per cent agreement that it is time for the teacher to move from the back to the front of the bus."

"This convention has been, from beginning to end, what a convention ought to be — to show teachers how to become effective teachers and to gain the things necessary to make our schools effective schools. It is not our purpose to present an inservice type program; our function is to learn how to bargain more effectively for the children," he said.

"In the 23 years I have been a part of the teacher union movement, this convention has made our role more clear. "I believe that the effects of this convention will be felt throughout Wisconsin as they have never been before, despite the small numbers permitted to attend. Our delegates have received the message, and they will carry it back to their locals and the action will begin," the president concluded.

The job to be done, delegates agreed in the closing session, was to stand firm in bargaining, for expanded services for teachers, longer classes, and a stronger teachers' voice in the total educational program. It was spelled out in a list of demands which the teachers will take to bargaining sessions with their boards for next year's contracts, including more teaching time, more to say about working conditions and more to say about what is taught and how the children are to be taught.

Prepare Proposals

Bargaining by union teachers will begin with carefully prepared proposals and be carried out with a "hang tough," sophisticated set of techniques. Teams will enter the bargaining with solid teacher support, according to the plan worked out during the convention.

"After your membership tells you, generally, what it wants, your written proposal should ask for what you need and what you can logically and reasonably defend," Ronald Day, bargaining chairman for Menasha Teachers Union, Local 1166 AFL-CIO told the delegation.

He said the successful experience of his union during the past two years has been the result of long and careful preparation of agreement terms containing the membership demands. They have been patterned carefully after other approved contracts in the state and nation, stated simply and exactly with no part open for administrative interpretation and in final form presented to the board of education and the membership on the same day, he added.

Sessions Long

Menasha Teachers have negotiated the past two years in lengthy sessions of from four to eight months with the board of education and solicited public support by demonstration and petition.

Victor Zinda, past president of Green Bay Vocational Teachers Union Local 1720, told the delegation teachers must go to the bargaining table insistent upon being treated as equals and to settle the rights clauses in the contract first.

"You will be bargaining more frequently this year with a board of education professional negotiator," he said. "His goal will be to keep the status quo — keep the administration in power and the teacher in his place."

He told teachers not to budge from their original position, although "every effort will be made to move you. You will not be treated like a professional — you will be treated like dirt and every tool will be used including belittling, name calling, emotion and obvious collusion between the administration and the board."

Form Committee

Teachers also were advised to enter bargaining with a special action committee, prepared to group," she said.

any kind of "crisis situation," by Dr. Floyd Stachowski, a veteran teacher bargainer from the Milwaukee Schools and now a member of Local 1744 at Wisconsin State University-Whitewater.

"Know what you want and be willing to fight for it," he advised. "No one is going to give it to you."

When bargaining is finished, union members were advised to "go over the terms, word for word, point by point," by Miss Geraldine Marchant, executive director of the WFT. "Do not, under any circumstances, let the board write it. When you do get it in its final form, be sure you check with your copy, or you may come out a sad and sorry group," she said.

Part of St. Paul Lutheran Church Centennial program Sunday night at Fox Valley Lutheran High School, will be a play portraying some of the history of the church. Dress rehearsal was held Friday night.
